PENN DOWNS STATE

Quakers Use Forward Pass for Consistent Gains.

KEINATH IS THE STAR

Red and Blue Uncovers Remarkable Quarterback; Hollenbach Also Shines.

PENN AND INDIANS WIN GAMES.

Carlisle's victory over Harvard and Swarthmore's defeat of Annapolis gave Saturday's football results the surprises that have not been lacking this season. The principal games resulted as follows:

Penn, 28, State, 0.
Carlisle, 28; Harvard, 15.
Cornell, 12; West Point, 10.
Princeton, 14; Amherst, 0.
Yale, 22; Brown, 0.
Lock Haven Normal, 32; Bellefonte Academy, 0.
Swarthmore, 18; Annapolis, 0.

For the first time this season, Penn's eleven took a real dip in the open game of football on Franklin Field Saturday, and they obtained unexpected results, humbling the much-praised Penn State College team by a score of 28 to 0.

State College either did not show the strength which enabled it to defeat Cornell, or else the Penn team has reached a degree of efficiency which makes it unbeatable in the college ranks. It is true, however, that Penn Saturday played better football, was more resourceful and infinitely stronger than the upstate team.

The contest marked the resumption of athletic relations, after a lapse of five years, between the leading educational institution of Pennsylvania. In 1902 Penn beat State, and then they temporarily played quits.

Penn would have whipped State by adherence to straight football methods alone, but the score would not have been so large. The Quakers executed the forwaad pass with an abandon which would have done credit to the Indians on one of their winning days. Two of the five touchdowns directly resulted from the employment of this play.

KEINATH IS A STAR.

Next to the victory was the Penn discovery that they had a remarkable quarterback in Keinath, whose light has been held under a bushel for two years. In 1906 injuries put Keinath out for the running before the season was under way. This season he was virtually forgotton. While Pauxtis, Reagan and Miller took their turns at quarter on the varsity team, Keinath played with the scrubs and bided his time.

His chance came Saturday. His work was more than impressive; it was wonderful. Being one of the best basketball players in the college, Keinath showed the possiblilities of open play as no Penn player has done since the reformed rules. He made huge hurls of a Mount Pleasant distance, which sailed for 20 to 25 yards. They were not chance tosses at anybody and nobody in particular. Keinath never let the ball leave him until he was sure of its recipients, and then he made the long toss squarely into waiting hands.

Keinath was also a sure ground-gainer in running the ends. In this respect only Hollenback was his superior. In tackling Keinath was deadly, while he ran back punts without the sign of a fumble.

Hollenback crowded enough good playing Saturday for two games. He circled the ends consistently for big gains, was in every play and punted better than Vorhis or McCleary, of State.

Summed up, it was Keinath's and Hollenback's end runs and forward passes which produced the scores for Penn. The State line did good defensive work, but its secondary defense erratic. Penn interferers brushed back the ends, when attempts were made to circle the outposts, and the State tackles and half-backs generally missed the runner.

Most of State's gain's were from a cross-buck through tackle. McCleary, weak on the defensive, was the visitors' most reliable man carrying the ball. State made three first downs in the first half and none in the second.

Vorhis did not live up to his advance notices as a drop-kicker, but this may have been because he had scant chance to show his skill in this line because of State's infrequent excursions into the 40-yard zone. Once in the second half he dropped back to the 35-yard line for goal, but it was a very weak attempt the ball sailing on a low line to Keinath. At the very last second of play he was attempting another try when Penn tackles were on top of him before he could raise his leg.

Cyphers played a star game for State. He boxed Gallagher about at will, and did the same thing to Deitrick when the latter took Gallagher's place. Other Penn linesmen held well. Dwyer and Zeigler were immovable, and the tackles, Draper and Gaston, were exceedingly alert. Mack in took the latter's place in the secand half, and followed his predecessor's clip.

The three tackles even outshone the ends in getting down the field under punts. Invariably the State man who caught the ball was dropped in his tracks. Scarlett did the best work of the ends, but it was not spectacular because tackles minimized his sphere of usefulness. Pauxtis began at left end, but was soon sent to the side lines because of injuries. Braddock and Miller in turn followed him in the position.

One of the visitors was disqualified for slugging. In the second half, Center Rush Weaver gave his vis-a-vis, Dwyer, a blow in the face. Umpire "Bummy" Booth saw the wallop land and quickly hustled Weaver off the field.

A PRETTY CATHOLIC WEDDING

Miss Mary Kelley Becomes the Wife of Mr. C. E. Beezer.

Thursday promptly at 7 o'clock Rev. Father Patrick McArdle united Mr. Christopher E. Beezer and Miss Mary Kelley in the Holy bonds of marriage. The nuptial mass was said by Father McArdle in the Catholic Cathedral on Bishop street, where a great many friends of the happy young couple had gathered to witness the ceremony.

The bride looked very pretty in a tailor made traveling gown of silver gray serge trimmed in blue velvet. The groom of course was dressed in a conventional black. The bridesmaid was Miss Elizabeth Kelley a sister of the bride and the best man was Mr. Arthur Beezer a nephew of the groom.

After the ceremony a lot of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Beezer escorted the bride and groom from the church to the large fire patrol carriage and as the number was so great, the bridal party had to yield to whatever they desired to do with them. They were driven over the principal streets of the town and then taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gherity on South Spring street where an excellent wedding breakfast was served and a reception follow.

Both young people are well known in Bellefonte and have many friends who wish them all the happiness in the world. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts from her friends such as china, silver and glass ware, pictures, furniture and linens.

They left on the 9 o'clock train for Pittsburg and other cities through the west where they will spend their honey moon, after which they returned to Bellefonte and went to housekeeping in one of the McQuistion houses on High street.

James Miller Arrested.

James Miller, who resides at Nittany Furnace, was arrested Wednesday afternoon by State Fish Warden, George D. Shannon, of Philadelphia. Mr. Miller got into trouble by not paying strict attention to the law governing fish baskets. Some time ago the accused put a basket in Spring Creek, near what is known as Long Reach. The law is that the number of the basket and the name of the owner must be on it, also the bottom slats must be taken off from sunup to sundown. Warden Shannon went up to the place and found that Mr. Miller had not carried out any of the above requirements. Mr. Shannon with officer Jodon then arrested Mr. Miller and took him before Squire Keichline where he was fined $20. Mr. Miller is a poor man who cannot read or write and his defense was that he didn't know the law. However, that didn't excuse him. We believe Mr. Miller honest in his statement, and it is be regretted that he must be punished the same as flagrant violators.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE

Will Meet in Bellefonte November 18 to 22 1907.

HELD IN COURT HOUSE

The School Directors will Meet the Same Week—An Out Line for Both Gatherings.

GOOD ENTERTAINMENTS BOOKED

The Sixty-first annual Teachers' Institute of Centre county will be held in the court house commencing Monday, Nov. 18. Prof. D. O. Etters, the worthy county superintendent, has left nothing undone that would in any way add to the comfort and interest of the various sessions that will be held during the week. He has selected the very best instructors and the indications are that it will be one of the best and most instructive institutes ever held in the county. It is also believed that the attendance will be much larger than on former occasions. As to the lectures and entertainments during the evenings, they have been selected with care, and are bound to give general satisfaction. It is therefore hoped that the citizens of Bellefonte will liberally patronize them. Everybody should turn in and help make this educational convention a grand success.

Monday morning the enrollment clerk will be at his desk as usual. The enrollment fee is the same as last year, $1.50. The payment of this fee will entitle the teachers and others to membership tickets which will admit them to all the sessions, with the right of reserved seats at all the evening entertainments. The officers of the institute as follows: President D. O. Etters, county superintendent; vice presidents, C. L. Gramley and C. D. Koch; secretary, Miss Gertrude Wieland; enrollment clerks, F. Milford Pletcher and John A. Williams; ticket agent, Jonas E. Wagner; door-keeper, W. S. Holter and T. L. Moore. The music will be furnished by Prof. Meyer, of Centre Hall; assisted by Miss Bessie H. Dorworth as pianist.

EVENING ENTERTAINMENT.

All evening entertainments will begin at 8 o'clock, doors at 7.30. In the Court House, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, admission 25 cents. Reserved seats 35c. Thursday evening in Petrikin Hall. Admission 35c. Reserved seats 50 cents. Monday evening Dr. C. C. Miller, president of Lima College, will lecture on "Alexander Hamilton." Those who heard Dr. Miller on Napoleon will want to hear this lecture on Hamilton. It will be something fine.

Tuesday evening Edward Elliott, the famous impersonator, will present the interesting story of American Life, "The Lion and the Mouse."

Wednesday evening, Dr. Nathan C. Schaffer will deliver a lecture on, "Work and Play in Education." Dr. Schaffer needs no commendation from our pen only to say that every teacher and director in the county should make it a point to hear this lecture.

Thursday evening "The Royal Gypsy Concert Company" will entertain the institute.

Another interesting feature of the institute will be the Twenty-first annual meeting of the School Directors' Association of Centre county. The sessions will be held in Petrikin Hall on Wednesday and Thursday. Every School Director in the county is, by virtue of his office, a member of this Association; and the law states that it shall be the duty of each director in each district in the county to attend this annual meeting. The law provides for compensation at the rate of two dollars per day, and mileage at the rate of three cents per mile, to be paid by the district which the director represents. The officers of this association are as follows: President, Hon. W. C. Heinle, Bellefonte; Vice-presidents, Dr. W. S. Glenn, of State College and David K. Keller, of Potter township; secretary, Henry C. Quigley, Esq., Bellefonte; treasurer, John P. Harris, Bellefonte.

The first session will be held at 10.30 o'clock, opened by County Superintendent D. O. Etters. President W. C. Heinle will then make his annual address, followed by an address by D. F. Fortney, Esq. In the afternoon the following program will be observed: Address, "The Education of Pennsylvania," by Dr. C. C. Miller; address, "When the Director Looks Good," by Dr. Gordinier, address, "The Need of Township High Schools," by D. F. Fortney. There will be discussions on all the above subjects.

Thursday morning the first address will be by Dr. J. C. Willis, of Lexington, Ky. His subject will be "The Schools and the Community." Dr. Schaeffer will then make an address on "Recent Legislation." "School Libraries," Their Value to the School and Community" will be the subject of the closing address by D. F. Fortney.

Among the announcements made by D. O. Etters are the following:

The Supervising Principals, High School Principals assistants will hold a round table session in the Arbitration Room at 10 a. m. Tuesday, Nov. 19th. Messrs. J. D. Meyer, Ch., F. M. Pletcher, and K. H. Rymer are the committee in charge of the table.

The teachers of primary schools will meet in round table in the Arbitration Room at 10 a. m. Wednesday, Nov. 20th. Misses Lilliam Reece, Ch., Maud Sechrist and Cordelia Acker are the committee in charge.

BRAKEMAN MET DEATH IN YARD

Theodore H. Bradley Instantly Killed While Uncoupling Car and Engine.

Theadore H. Bradley, a brakeman employed on the Pittsburg division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and residing at 1317 Seventeenth avenue, was instantly killed at 5:30 Saturday morning a short distance above the Juniata scales by being caught between the engine and a car while uncoupling the engine from the car.

Mr. Bradley was a member of the crew of extra No. 2736. He had left his home on Tuesday evening to make a trip and had just arrived in the city with his train. He was engaged in uncoupling the front car from the tender when he was caught between the bumpers and terribly crushed about the body, death being instantanous. The body was conveyed to the morgue of Undertaker Lafferty & John to be prepared for burial. It was taken to the residence of his brother, G. P. Bradley, 1317 Seventeenth avenue, Saturday evening.

The deceased was born at Morrisdale Mines and is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Bradley who resides near Milesburg Centre county. He was born in February 1888 and has been a resident of Altoona since Sept. 1, prior to which time he resided in Bellefonte. He entered the employ of the railroad company on Sept. 5.

The dead brakeman was single and besides his mother he is survived by five brothers and two sisters as follows: Harvey, of Braddock, Grant, of Patton; George, of Oil City; Even, of the Soldier's Orphan School of Scotland; Mrs. Susan Smith, of Morrisdale; Esther, of Philipsburg, and Mrs. Fannie Emeley, of Munson. He was affiliated with the Methodist church and was a member of the Red Men and the Relief Association. The body was taken to Philipsburg for interment. Theadore Bradley was well known in Bellefonte. He was employed at one time at the Brockerhoff House and at McCoy's Iron Works.

DEATH OF ALVA S. GROW.

Former Centre County Editor Stricken With Paralysis.

Alva S. Grow, formerly prominent in Clinton county politics, but later a resident of Philadelphia, died at his residence No. 5707 Woodland Avenue, on Saturday night, as a result of a paralytic stroke suffered two years ago. Mr. Grow, who was born at Mill Hall, Clinton county, in 1856, was a State bank examiner during Governor Hastings' administration. Prior to that he served a term as Register and recorder of Clinton county. At one time he was editor of the Lock Haven "Journal." He was also associate editor of the Bellefonte Republican for several years. After going to Philadelphia Mr. Grow was employed on the "Record" and later on "The Press." Afterward he became secretary of the Amparo Gold Mining Company of Mexico.

Mr. Grow was president of the Board of Trustees of the Olivet Methodist Episcopal Church, and superintendent of the Sunday school. He leaves a wife and one son, Malcolm a studedt at Jefferson Medical College. His mother, Mrs. Julia A. Stevenson, is still living at Lock Haven.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 8 o'clock Monday evening. Interment were made at Lock Haven.

THE MAN OF TOMORROW

Hon. Ellis L. Orvis Spoke to a Large Audience On Sunday at Philipsburg

"THE KIND OF A MAN"

The people of the Town Irrespective of Religious or Political Faith Turned out to Hear Judge Orvis

HIS ADDRESS FULL OF GOOD THINGS.

Judge Ellis L. Orvis, of Bellefonte, spoke Sunday afternoon in Gray's Hall Philipsburg under the direction of the Christian Church on the subject, "The Man of Tomorrow." The people of the town, irrespective of religious or political faith, turned out in large numbers to hear Centre county's popular young jurist, and he must certainly have felt honored at having the privilege of looking into the faces of so many representative citizens.

The Judge expressed great pleasure at being permitted to come to our little mountain city to address the people, complimented us on the development of our material interests and regretted that the Allegheny's big hills divorce us so widely from Bellefonte and prevented a more direct route between the two places.

We would not presume to give even a synopsis of the Judge's excellent address. It was, he said, no set speech, but was certainly packed full of good, practical things. He did not care about prophesying as to who the man of tomorrow would be, but emphasized very forcibly the kind of a man he should be. Recognizing the fact that the boys and the girls of today are going to be the men and the women of tomorrow, and that the future of our country will depend upon the elements entering into their make-up, he urged that they be given the very best home, scholastic and practical training, involving the highest degree of moral, physical, mental and spiritual culture. Proper regard in these connections will mean the perpetuity of our government and institutions, and the carrying out of the noblest and best policies.

The young men Bellefonte will have the pleasure of hearing Judge Orvis in the near future. As the Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association has booked him for one of the Sunday afternoon meetings. It is to be hoped the Judge will deliver the same address in Bellefonte as he did in Philipsburg Sunday. We feel sure that the place where ever he speaks will be crowded to the doors.

Mrs. Leola Mills.

At 9:30 o'clock Friday morning Mrs. Leola Mills, wife of Harry Mills, died at her home, 1328 Seventeenth st., Altoona, of typhoid fever after an illness of several weeks. Deceased was born at Troy, N. Y., and was aged 21 years. She has resided in that city for the past twelve years. She was a member of the Sixteenth street African Methodist Episcopal church. She is survived by her husband and one son, Kenneth. She is also survived by her father who resides in New Jersey. The funeral took place Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Services conducted in the A. M. E. church. Interment was made in the Rose Hill cemetery. Harry Mills is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mills of Bellefonte.

It is a Pretty Little Girl.

If you see Bill Brown the young plumber on the street smiling and saying "Howdy do," "Nice weather" and all those foolish things, don't mind him for he is not accountable, he is so happy he don't know what to do, and the reason of it all is, the big stork brought him a pretty little daughter on Friday evening. According to Bill's thinking she is just about the nicest ever,—and we extend our heartiest congratulations old Pal, and hope the little girl will grow up to be a charming young lady and brighten your pathway through life. The little girl was born at the hospital and Mrs. Brown and the child are getting along splendidly.

CELEBRATED HIS THIRTY-SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

Irvin W. Tate of Coleville was Greatly Surprised.

On Monday Irvin W. Tate of Coleville reached his 36th birthday and his good wife in order to celebrate the occasion properly, got up a magnificent dinner and had some of his friends in to help move the affair along successfully.

Irvin is one of the engineers at the Bellefonte furnace, and has held this position for years, in fact he is just about as competent in the work as the best of them and the company realizes they have a good man in this place, so they take good care of him. He generally comes home from work at 5:30 or a little after but it had been arranged with the gentleman who was to relieve Mr. Tate not to get to work until 6:00, and so it was. When Irvin got home he smelled the "rat." His wife wanted him to go in the front door, as she could not get the other opened, he said "No thanks, I'll get in the back," and when he opened the door, he knew all. He was surprised alright and didn't know what to say at first, but he over came all of that backwardness in a short time. Supper was announced and the guests invited to seats around the festive board. The table fairly groaned with the many good things to eat. It is said, if you want a Good wife, one who knows how to keep a house and cook a good meal, you must go to Penns Valley, Irve heard about this eleven years ago and started from the farther end of Colville at the base of the Muncy mountains and went to the lower end of this beautiful valley, to Aaronsburg and there picked Miss Rosie Mingle, the girl he loved best of all in the world and made her his wife. That is the reason this magnificent meal was spread Monday evening, such as oysters, roast duck, roast chicken, filling and dressing, waffles, cream cold slaw, sweet potatoes, cream potatoes, cranberries, potato chips, chow chow, olives, pickles, all kinds of jellies, chocolate and vanilla ice cream in bricks, cocoanut and chocolate cake, coffee, fruit, sherry and grape wine and cigars.

The dinner was greatly enjoyed by everyone present, and the balance of the evening was spent in telling old time stories, smoking General Banks, and tipping the sherry glass.

Mrs. Tate was ably assisted in preparing this dinner by Mrs. Philip Garbrick. Among the guests present were the following young men, Captain Philip F. Garbrick, Daniel Kelley, Lawrence O'Leary, Orrie Kline, Lloyd Stover, Charley Stover, Harry Garbrick and Roger Bayard.

Mr. Eugene Wentzel Married.

D. Eugene Wentzel, of Bellwood, and Miss Laura A. Hooper, of Altoona, were quietly united in marriage last Saturday evening at the Christ Second Lutheran church parsonage, Altoona. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. E. Wagner, the pastor. Mr. Wentzel is the son of Ira Wentzel formerly a well-known merchant of Bellewood but now residing on Sunny Brook farm near that place. He is well known in musical circles in this vicinity, and has the happy faculty of making friends wherever he goes. The bride is an accomplished young lady, being a musician of unusual ability, and possesses a winning personality which has been the medium through which she has made lasting friendships. Both of the young people have many friends in our town who join in wishing them a happy future with their new friends, Cupid and Hymen. Both are members of the choir of the Eighth Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Altoona. They will reside in Bellwood. Mr. Wentzel at one time was chemist at the Bellefonte furnace.

A New Instructor.

Prof. H. V. Egbert, a graduate of the Western Reserve university, is one of the new members of the instructing force in the engineering department at State College. His chief work has been in mathematics and astronomy consisting of the contribution of many important articles to various astronomical journals, during the three years he was assistant astronomer at the Cincinnatti observatory. He was with the Dudley observatory at Albany, N. Y., for six years, and the Washburn observatory at Madison, Wis., for two years. Previous to coming here he spent 14 years as professor of mathematics and astronomy in Bucktel college at Akron, O. Prof. Egbert's position as instructor in the department of mechanics and materials of construction greatly relieves the over crowded condition which has existed in that department since the opening of the term.

MISS ROOT TO WED

The Date Has Been Fixed for November 27

THIRD IN THE CABINET

The Daughter of the Secretary of State Will Take For Her Husband a Grandson of President Grant

WEDDING TO TAKE PLACE AT HER HOME

Washington, November 7.—Cards of invitation to the wedding of Miss Edith Root and Lieutenant Ulysses S. Grant, 3d, United States Corps of Engineers, were received in Washington yesterday. The wedding will be in the home of the Secretary of State in Rhode Island avenue on November 27.

Among the guests from outside of Washington will be Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, aunt of Lieutenant Grant on his father's side and Mrs. Potter Palmer his mother's sister.

Miss Root will be the third bride in the Cabinet circle in the course of the administration of President Roosevelt. The two preceeding her were Miss Helen Hay, daughter of the late Secretary of State, John Hay, who was married to Payne Whitney, son of a former Secretary of the Navy, and Miss Anne Hitchcock, daughter of the then Secretary of the Interior, who was married to Lieutenant Commander Sims a little less than two years ago. Both these weddings were in church, and much disappointment is felt that Miss Root's marriage will not also be in a church.

Ten Commmandments.

In the Boston Commercial, Graham Hood gives ten commandments for the business world. It would be well for us to read them over carefully and strive to live up to them. The commandments are as follows:

1. Thou shall not wait for something to turn up, but thou shall pull off thy coat and go to work that thou mayest prosper in thine affairs and make the word "failure" spell "success."

2. Thou shalt not be content to go about business looking like a bum, for thou shouldest know that thy personal appearance is better than a letter of recommendation.

3. Thou shall not try to make excuses nor shall thou say to those who chide thee; "I didn't think."

4. Thou shall not wait to be told what thou shalt do, nor in what manner thou shalt do it, for thus may thy days be long in the job which fortune hath given thee.

5. Thou shall not fail to maintain thine own integrity, nor shalt thou be guilty of anything that will lessen thy respect for thyself.

6. Thou shalt not covet the other fellow's job, nor his salary, nor the position he hath gained by his own hard labor.

7. Thou shalt not fail to live within thine income, nor shalt thou contract any debts when thou canst not see thy way clear to pay them.

8. Thou shalt not be afraid to blow thine own horn, for he who faileth to blow his own horn, at the proper occasion findeth nobody standing ready to blow it for him,

9. Thou shall not hesitate to say "No" when thou meaneth "No" nor shall thou fail to remember that there are times when it is unsafe to bind thyself by a hasto judgement.

10. Thou shalt give every man a square deal. This is the last and great commandment, and there is no other like unto it. Upon this commandment stands all the law and the profits of the business world.

The Youths Companion Calender for 1908.

The publishers of the Youth's Companion will, as always at this season, present to every subscriber who subscription (1.75) is paid for 1908 a beautiful Calendar for the new year. Four paintings by artists of distinction are produced in the four panels of the Calendar by a process of color printing which has been recently brought to remarkable excellence. The first of the panels is an inspiring sea, scene, full of the beauty of the wide ocean and sky, and the joyous rush of the homeward-bound ship. The second is a fine cattle piece. The third pictures an old mill at Zaandam—typically Dutch in treatment. The fourth panel depicts a "Girl with Roses"—a charming face, exquisite in color and expression. All the pictures are worthy of preservation long after 1908 had passed into the good old times.

DON'T BE A KNOCKER

Bellefonte Cannot Afford to Have Any Faction.

An exchange prints the following which we adapt to this town. There should be no "factions" in this little city of our ours. Every improvement made enhances the value of all property in and surrounding our town. We should live as one big family. When there is discord in the family there is little progress. When there is a united pull there is little we cannot accomplish. Envy, jealousy and hatred pull us all down. Envy is a canker that gnaws at the heart and makes one sour, disgruntled and unhappy. Jealousy makes one unfair in passing judgement. Hatred does not pay even from a sordid point of view. Let us all be friends and pull together and show our neighbors what a large and harmonious family can accomplish in building up a town.

Bellefonte Merchants are Progressive Kind.

The merchants of this town have as fine stocks of goods for the fall and winter trade as can be found anywhere not excepting the large cities. A visitor to the stores is surprised to see what immense lines of goods they carry. The merchants anticipate large sales in the next two months. While the people are looking around for the store which sell them goods at the lowest possible prices, the wise merchants will attract their attention by telling them in the advertising columns of the newspapers where they can go to get the best for the least money. There is no doubt that the people are doing some hard thinking at the present time. The high prices charged by produce dealers have caused many families to economical campaign this winter. Because of this the family scans the advertising columns of the newspapers to ascertain what store it should visit in order to secure the greater bargains. This fact may be regarded by the merchants as a hit that the store which advertises most liberally is the store which draws the larger number of customers.

Now for instance glance oves the advertiseements in this paper.

The Royal Month and the Royal Disease.

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never think of scrofula—its bunches, cutaneous eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative, —consumption.

—Don't be discouraged if other remedies have done you no good. Try Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, the greatest blessing to suffering humanity. The surest protector against disease. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.—C. M. Parrish.

Stockholders Happy.

During the past two weeks the stockholders of the Penna. Development Company, of this place, have been highly pleased with the output of their zinc operations in the vicinity of Joplin Miso. For several years the company has had many disappointments and financial difficulties. During all this time the stockholders were confident that they had valuable holdings and that with proper development the properties would yield large returns. Naturally expenses exceeded all calculations, but heroically they clung to the the proposition putting additional funds into the operations.

In the past two weeks their hopes have been realized. They are down to the rich ore on the "Golden Rod" mine which is yielding a large output daily, with an immense deposit in sight. At the present pace there will be some nice dividends declared later.

The "Prairie" mineis another operation that soon will be milling rich ore, as they are in it now, and it will prove a valuable property.

New Lumbering Venture.

N. B. Spangler Esq., of this place, and Jack Nason, of Julian, have secured timber rights on hundreds acres of land along the footbills of the Alleghenies. The track extends from Julian to Port Matilda and from the Bald Eagle Valley railrosd almost six miles north. It is their purpose to start operations in the near future and take off all the timber thereon.

There is some big timber on the land, which can be cut into marketable lumber while there is an abundance of prop timber. Railroad ties, shingles and staves will also be some of the product turned out. May the new firm prosper and become rich in the operation.

—When you are sick, out of sorts, take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. The most effective remedy. Relieves when others fail. You be the judge, try it. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.—C. M. Parrish.

No danger of consumption if you use Foley's Honey and Tar to cure that stubborn cough.

Deafness CannotbCur

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Henry E. Jones of Tampa, Fla., writes: "I can thank God for my present health due to Foley's Kidney Cure. I tried doctors and all kinds of kidney cures, but nothing done me much good till I took Foley's Kidney Cure. Four bottles cured me, and I have no more pain in my back and shoulders. I am 62 years old, and suffered long, but thanks to Foley's Kidney Cure I am well and can walk and enjoy myself. It is a pleasure to recommend it to those needing a kidney medicine." C. M. Parrish.

In most cases consumption results from a neglected or improperly treated cold. Foley's Honey and Tar cures the most obstinate coughs and prevents serious result. It costs you no more than the unknown preparations and you should insist upon having the genuine in the yellow package. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

FIRST WIRELESS MESSAGE.

Colonel Clowry of the Western Union Claims to Have Sent It.

The strike of the telegraph operators has brought into prominence the president of the Western Union Telegraph company, Colonel Robert C. Clowry, who succeeded General Thomas T. Eckert in this position about five years ago. It may not be generally known that Colonel Clowry has some claim to being the first to use wireless telegraphy. Strange to say, his employment of it was as long ago as the period of the civil war. Born in 1839 in Will county, Ill., he entered the employ of the Illinois and Mississippi Telegraph company at Joliet in 1852 as messenger boy, and in the service of that and other companies acquired a thorough knowledge of the telegraphic science of the day. When the civil war broke out he went to the front in the Union army, and in 1863 President Lincoln commissioned him captain and assistant quartermaster of the United States army and assigned him to duty in charge of the United States telegraphic system in the southwest, with headquarters at Little Rock, Ark. Afterward he served at St. Louis.

At one time he found himself in command of the lines at a certain point in Missouri, but unable to communicate with the Union forces across the Mississippi owing to the fact that the enemy had cut the wires. The message he desired to transmit was of the utmost importance, says the Saturday Evening Post in relating the story, and could on no acount suffer delay. It was pitchy dark and the rain was descending in torrents, the wind was high and Colonel Clowry could conjure no way out of his difficulty. Suddenly he heard the toot of a locomotive on the other side of the river. An idea came to him. Only a short distance from him stood a locomotive, and, climbing into the cab, he seized the whistle cord and began to jerk it in a manner that made the engineer and fireman think he had gone crazy. There was a series of wild toots such as nobody had ever heard before in the history of railroading, but pretty soon they brought from the other side of the river answering whistles. The operator at headquarters had heard his call and realized that locomotive whistles instead of telegraph keys must be used in the transmission of an important message.

At the close of the war Colonel Clowry entered the service of the Western Union and rose to become its head.

A Curious Superstition.

Among the superstitions of the Seneca Indians was this most beautiful one: When a young maiden died they imprisoned a young bird until it first began to try its powers of song, and then, loading it with caresses and messages, they loosed its bonds over her grave in the belief that it would not fold its wings nor close its eyes until it had flown to the spirit land and delivered its precious burden of affection to the loved and lost one.

Hit Harder.

"Woman is considered the weaker vessel," she remarked, "and yet"—

"Well?" she queried as she hesitated.

"And yet," she continued, "man is the oftener broke."—Exchange.

Forgetful.

"I suppose," said the beautiful girl, "that you often burn the midnight oil?"

"No," replied the poet. "I hang my hat on the doorknob, so the landlady can't look through the keyhole and catch me burning the gas."—Judge.

Inquisitive.

"I'll send my boy to a boarding school."

"What for?"

"Oh, he asks such questions. He wanted to know last night if a shoemaker could breathe his last."

Running a Pig's Ear.

You have often read in books about Pig's ears in lumber camp and around through the coal region but this is the first time we have known old Bellefonte to get so low as to openly conduct a place of this kind. We have clipped the following from this week's "Gazette" and if you do not know the parties who conducted the business just ask.

"Right in the heart of town and within a penny's pitch of the Temple of Justice, a "Pig's Ear" was in full blast all day on Tuesday in defiance of all moral principals and to the corruption of every man who ventured near.

We do not refer to this in the name of politics, for we do not believe that the County Chairman or either of the candidates would encourage this practice; but the moral effect of it is so disastrious that it should be frowned down by the decent element in either party, who are beginning to realize that it is time to quit sending men's souls to hell and their children to the poor-house on the winding labyrinth of politics.

Gentlemen, it pays to be good in politics as well as everything else; and the person who openly and flagrantly commits wrong may gain the temporary admiration of unprincipled men, but he will lose the respect and confidence of the better element in society, which alone is worth striving for".

Our Art Crafters Win Future Recognition.

The display from the Basket Shop of Miss Blanchard and Miss Merriman made last week at the Auditorium in Chicago elicited great admiration. Chicago doubtless outworks any other American city in the excellent and numerous examples of almost every branch of arts and crafts but the field of reed basket weaving has been pre-empted by no other art crafters which, made the work from the Basket Shop unique and of unusual interest. Marked originality in design and the exquisite color tones achieved in dyeing the reed characterized the collection which was large and included many baskets—beautiful, quaint very artistic, word pictures of which would be totally inadequate.

A pleasant surprise awaits the people of Bellefonte when these art crafters take opportunity to exhibit at home. To those cognizant of the success, artistic and commercial, being attained in the applied arts it will not seem extravagant to say that we may some day awaken to the knowledge that our town is best known through the work of the Basket Shop.

Strong Basket Ball Team for the Y. M. C. A.

Physical Director Hubbard of the Young Men's Christian Association is very busy these evenings getting his boys in shape for the coming winter sports.

In the class are a great number of young men who are working very hard to get in the basket ball team, and every night the boys are being worked out and the cream of the class will be picked by Hubbard for this team and the subs.

The team will very likely be picked from the following young men, Milan Walker, John Gorden, Elliott Hollabaugh, Edward Shields, Frank Smith, Harold Kirk, Martin Miller, Roger Willard, Lawrence McClure, Raymond Lingle and Love Lane.

In the bunch mentioned above is some dandy, good material and a team strong enough to defeat anything along the pike. After the team is organized the Physical Director who has scheduled a great many games out of town is planning to take the boys up through New Tork State. One of the places they will visit is Batavia, N. Y. where Godfrey the former Physical Director of this Association is now located. Those who are lucky enough to get on the team are very fortunate as a royal good time is promised on their many trips. It is very likely the team and the subs will be selected this week. When they are, we will announce their names, positions and the schedule of the games booked.

Milkmen Combine and Raise Price.

The milkmen who have been serving the people of Bellefonte with lacteal fluid have gone into a combine and on November first raised the price of milk from six to eight cents per quart. They did so because they claimed they could not furnish it at the old price owing to the advance in the price of feedstuffs. Of course it is natnral to suppose that every man knows his business but the writer knows of one or two instances in Bellefonte where owners of cows are selling milk for five cents and are satisfied at getting that price. And now that the dairymen have raised the price of milk the above cow owner declares he will buy more cows and furnish all the milk he can at the old price. It is also stated that farmers throughout the county are considering the question of furnishing Bellefonte with milk at the old price, six cents, so that there is a possibility that in the near future Bellefonte will be getting its supply of milk at the old price.

Playing Hooky and Loafing in the Livery Barns

The truant officer reported at this office this morning that he has caught at least a dozen youngster playing truant and loafing in some of the livery barns throughout the town. He went into Thompson's barn office on Thursday and found a half dozen boys out of the midway school who were spending the school hours there instead of being at school. He sent them back to their classes and told them if he ever caught them again he would arrest everyone of them. The proprietors of these barns should not allow these boys to do this as they are liable to be arrested.

Singer Building, Skyscraper King.

THERE is a query going the rounds about the already famous Singer building in New York. It goes like this: "Did you know they were going to take four stories off the Singer building?" The one who "bites" replies: "No. How is that?" And the answer comes, "To let the moon pass."

Any one who has stood on Broadway in front of the now completed steel framework of the tallest of New York's skyscrapers can appreciate the point. It seems as if it were in very truth scraping the sky and in danger of impeding the progress of the stars. The busy rushing throng on Broadway at the noontide and luncheon season now has a new diversion. It is watching the steeplejacks who climb the flagpole at the top of the Singer tower, either to perform some errand in connection with the work of construction or merely to show how agile and careless of their movements they can be in doing "stunts" at a height of 700 feet above terra firma, for the ball at the top of the flagpole, which was placed there by a nervy steeplejack one noon while the throng below strained necks in watching the performance, is 708 feet above the street. When the steeplejack, Ernest Capelle, was at his work on the staff, painting the ball at its top a golden hue, while the wind at that height was blowing a gale, he looked like a mere midget, hardly more than a speck against the sky. He lashed himself to the pole and by means of a bo'sun's chair and stirrup worked himself up to the top, chewing tobacco vigorously and taking occasional snapshots with a camera he carried of the fine view or of the buildings and crowd below when tired of laying on the gold paint. He was about two hours on his lofty perch.

The Singer building is the tallest building in downtown New York, wresting the honors that have been held for several years by the Park Row building, hitherto spoken of as the loftiest of New York's skyscrapers. It is expected that the tower of the Metropolitan Life building on Madison square will beat the record of the Singer building as to height. Its topmost point will be 690 feet above street level, and above that no doubt will be a flagstaff shooting up higher even than fearless Ernest Capelle climbed to place the ball on the staff of the Singer building. The latter building, which fronts on Broadway, is partially inclosed by another giant structure, the City Investment building, not so tall, but containing a greater amount of floor space. Indeed, it is claimed that it is the largest office building in the world. The Singer building tower seems to rise out of it and to be a part of it, but it is in reality a separate structure. The work on the two enterprises, which is progressing at a rapid rate, affords a most interesting and significant spectacle.

THE SINGER TOWER IN CONSTRUCTION, WITH STEEPLEJACK AT TOP OF FLAGPOLE.

Pittsburg is to have a skyscraper of dizzy height too. In fact, the claim is being made that the height record established in New York will be beaten by the Pittsburg rival of the Singer and Metropolitan Life buildings. It will cost, exclusive of its site, $2,000,000.

The erection of a modern steel structure to a height of nearly fifty stories is a task requiring the genius of the best equipped engineers and architects of this strenuous era, for the ordinary rules must be supplemented or set aside where a building is to be carried up an eighth of a mile into the air, equipped with elevators to take up and down the constantly moving loads of human freight and provided with all possible safeguards against destruction by the raging elements.

A Cynical View.

He—Do you believe that there is such a thing as true and lasting love? She—Possibly, but I sometimes doubt it. He—Well, there's Mr. and Mrs. Gessing, for example. They have been married ten years, and they seem to never want to lose sight of each other. Doesn't that look like true and lasting love? She—It may be that, but it looks to me more like true and lasting jealousy.—Exchange.

idge seems to have ended about that time too. He secured a commisison in the regular army and rose to a captaincy, serving in the Philippines. He resigned to return to the United States, at his mother's request, about three years ago and not long after took as his bride another boyhood sweetheart, the beautiful Mlle. Cecilia Noussiard of Paris.

The Right Rev. Dr. David H. Greer, who has been prominent in the doings of the Episcopal general convention at Richmond, Va., is one of the most unclerical looking of the members of the house of bishops. He was rector of the famous St. Bartholomew's church, New York, when chosen four years ago to be coadjutor to Bishop Henry C. Potter of the diocese of New York. Both he and Bishop Potter are excellent horsemen, and their gallops along the country roadsides help them to keep their youth, though both men are elderly, if not exactly aged. Few would take Bishop Greer for a man in his sixty-fourth year. His work for fifteen years as the rector of St. Bartholomew's resulted in making that one of the foremost of the institutional churches of the country, with a multitude of activities for the benefit of the dense population in the midst of which it is located. Like Bishop Potter, he gives away a great deal of money, sometimes as much as his salary amounts to for the year. One time when the amount of his philanthropies had equaled the amount of his salary a friend asked him why he was quite so generous. "I felt that I was getting pampered," replied the bishop, then rector of St. Bartholomew's. "I had enough left over from last year, anyway, to meet all my needs."

BISHOP D. H. GREER.

The bishop had preached one Sunday about frivolity. A young woman who listened to his sermon remonstrated with him.

"I, for instance, am not frivolous," she said. "On the contrary, I am fond of cooking. I often go into the kitchen and help our cook."

"But perhaps your help," said Bishop Greer, with a smile, "is like that of a young girl I used to know in Wheeling. She went into her mother's kitchen one day and told the cook she had come to help her. But the cook frowned. 'No, no,' she said. 'I have too much to do today.'"

The gyrations of United Copper stock in the Wall street curb market recall the fact that the "Copper Croesus," F. Augustus Heinze, has had, like the securities with which his name is associated, many ups and downs. But he is never down long, and the nerve he has shown in overcoming obstacles to his plans has won the admiration of a public that likes pluck wherever displayed. He holds with the United States government the unique honor of having fought the Standard Oil company and brought it to its knees. He has never shown any fear of anybody. He was the first to wear a clawhammer coat in Butte and thus won the title of "dude," but the cowboys liked him for all that and admired his nerve in going up against the traditions of a rough mining camp. One of the secrets of his success is his faithfulness to friends, and it said that every one of the associates who in the past eighteen years have been true to him has had a share in his prosperity. When he first arrived in Butte he was nursed through typhoid by a gambler, and he has since that time staked the man on various occasions as high as $20,000. He has in his employ many men who are retained for what they have done, not because they are valuable now. If the enemy strikes he will hit back, and harder if possible, yet he must know the first blow was aimed directly at him. When asked once how much more evidence he desired of a colleague's treachery, then apparent to every one else, he replied, "Because he is treacherous is no reason why I should be."

The Great Difference.

Poorman—Of course there's a big difference between a botanist and a florist. Ascum—Is there, really? Poorman—Yes; a botanist is one who knows all about flowers, and a florist is one who knows all about the prices people will pay.—Philadelphia Press.

Naturally.

Two men met at the gate of the cemetery, and each with excessive politeness bowed to the other to pass in before him. After a few minutes of this, when neither would give way, the younger of the two smiled and said:

"You are the elder of the two, so naturally you ought to go first."—Seattle.

NATURE.

As a fond mother, when the day is o'er,
Leads by the hand her little child to bed,
Half willing, half reluctant to be led,
And leave his broken playthings on the floor,
Still gazing at them through the open door,
Nor wholly reassured and comforted
By promises of others in their stead,
Which, though more splendid, may not please him more;
So Nature deals with us, and takes away
Our playthings one by one, and by the hand
Leads us to rest so gently that we go
Scarce knowing if we wish to go or stay,
Being too full of sleep to understand
How far the unknown transcends the what we know.
—H. W. Longfellow.

HE NEVER SMILED AGAIN.

THE bark that held a prince went down,
The sweeping waves rolled on.
And what was England's glorious crown
To him that wept a son?
He lived, for life may long be borne
Ere sorrow break its chain.
Why comes not death to those who mourn?
He never smiled again!

THERE stood proud forms around his throne,
The stately and the brave,
But which could fill the place of one—
That one beneath the wave?
Before him passed the young and fair
In pleasure's reckless train,
But seas dashed o'er his son's bright hair—
He never smiled again!

HE sat where festal bowls went round,
He heard the minstrel sing,
He saw the tourney's victor crowned
Amidst the knightly ring.
A murmur of the restless deep
Was blent with every strain,
A voice of winds that would not sleep—
He never smiled again!

HEARTS, in that time, closed o'er the trace
Of vows once fondly poured,
And strangers took the kinsman's place
At many a joyous board;
Graves, which true love had bathed with tears,
Were left to heaven's bright rain,
Fresh hopes were born for other years—
He never smiled again!
—Felicia Hemans.

THE BABY.

WHERE did you come from, baby, dear?
Out of the everywhere into the here.

Where did you get your eyes so blue?
Out of the sky as I came through.

What makes the light in them sparkle and spin?
Some of the starry spikes left in.

Where did you get that little tear?
I found it waiting when I got here.

What makes your forehead so smooth and high?
A soft hand stroked it as I went by.

What makes your cheek like a warm white rose?
Something better than any one knows.

Whence that three cornered smile of bliss?
Three angels gave me at once a kiss.

Where did you get that pearly ear?
God spoke, and it came out to hear.

Where did you get those arms and hands?
Love made itself into hooks and bands.

Feet, whence did you come, you darling things?
From the same box as the cherubs' wings.

How did they all just come to be you?
God thought about me, and so I grew.

But how did you come to us, you dear?
God thought of you, and so I am here.
—George Macdonald.

THE POLAR QUEST.

UNCONQUERABLY men venture on the quest
And seek an ocean amplitude unsailed,
Cold, virgin, awful. Scorning ease and rest
And, heedless of the heroes who have failed,
They face the ice floes with a dauntless zest.

The polar quest! Life's offer to the strong!
To pass beyond the pale, to do and dare,
Leaving a name that stirs us like a song
And making captive some strange Otherwhere
Though grim the conquest and the labor long.

Forever courage kindles, faith moves forth
To find the mystic floodway of the north.
—Richard Burton.

OLD FOLKS AT HOME.

WAY down upon de Swanee ribber,
Far, far away,
Dere's wha my heart is turning ebber,
Dere's wha de old folks stay.
All up and down de whole creation
Sadly I roam,
Still longing for de old plantation
And for de old folks at home.

All de world am sad and dreary
Eberywhere I roam.
Oh, darkies, how my heart grows weary,
Far from de old folks at home!

All round de little farm I wandered
When I was young;
Den many happy days I squandered,
Many de songs I sung.
When I was playing wid my brudder
Happy was I.
Oh, take me to my kind old mudder;
Dere let me live and die!

One little hut among de bushes,
One dat I love,
Still sadly to my memory rushes,
No matter where I rove.
When will I see de bees a-humming
All round de comb?
When will I hear de banjo tumming
Down in my good old home?

All de world am sad and dreary
Eberywhere I roam.
Oh, darkies, how my heart grows weary,
Far from de old folks at home!

Be rich in patience if thou in good be poor.—Dunbar.

She Thought He Was Dead.

Maginnis had been ill for some time, and, like a great many invalids, he was somewhat irritable, and when things failed to meet his approval the next unfortunate who came within range was pretty apt to be reminded of it in a way far more forcible than polite. He lingered in this condition for several weeks, daily growing weaker, but still holding his own sufficiently to make things lively and more or less interesting for those about him. Finally one day when the family doctor called he met the long suffering Mrs. Maginnis coming out of the sickroom, and, rubbing his hands, he cheerily remarked: "Ah, good morning, Mrs. Maginnis! How is our patient today?"

"It's dead the poor mon is, O'im afther thinkin', hivin rist his sowl!" was the resigned reply.

"You think he is dead? Don't you know whether he is or not?" demanded the doctor.

"Not fer shure," responded Mrs. Maginnis briskly, "but thin he bethrays ivery symptom of it. I wint into his room jist now, an' he didn't t'row anything at me!"—London Tit-Bits.

Snuff as Medicine.

"Oh, yes," said the tobacconist, as he tapped a jar filled with a cinnamon colored powder, "I sell an ounce or two of snuff occasionally—to the old, as a rule. The young will seldom look at snuff. And those who do use it impute medicinal virtues to it. Thus old fashioned watchmakers, gem cutters and tailors think that a pinch of snuff now and then improves the eyesight. They think it refreshes and fortifies weary eyes as a cup of tea refreshes and fortifies a weary brain. Others think snuff cures a cold. Others take it for the headache. Others still believe that it wards off contagion. Personally I believe that snuff taking is less harmful than smoking. Its effect, too, is pleasanter than the effect of smoking—it is a most soothing and fascinating effect once you get used to it—but the habit is untidy and therefore it can get no hold upon us in this aesthetic age."—Los Angeles Times.

Rescued a "Foxy" Squirrel.

A man in New York state who owns several fine cats stepped out of his house one day to see two of his feline possessions crouched in the grass, and equidistant between them sat a common striped squirrel, not daring to move a hair lest he invite the sharp claws of one or both of his enemies, but the anxious brown eyes rolled from side to side as he calculated his chances of escape between the two. The man walked on toward the squirrel, and when he came within jumping distance the squirrel seized his opportunity and leaped upon the man's trousers and ran nimbly to his shoulder. Then the man backed slowly toward a tree at no great distance from him. Again, when within leaping distance the squirrel jumped into the tree and disappeared amid its branches.

"Trying on" Furniture.

When you go to buy a suit of furniture nowadays in one of our department stores you don't have to speculate as to how it will look in your room nor whether it will fit in or not. As soon as the salesman sees that a particular suit has met your fancy he calls for a porter or two and turns them loose in one of several rooms fitted up around the main showroom, setting them at work removing all the furniture in it. Then the suit that you seem to be hankering after is placed in appropriate positions in this room, and you can see at a glance just how the bedroom or parlor or dining room will look if you buy that particular suit.

There are a dozen of these smaller rooms around the main showroom, and as each one is decorated in a different manner it is easy to pick one out that approximates the scheme of your room at home. Like many modern ways of selling goods it is expensive in the beginning, but it pays in the end, for this plan of showing goods seldom fails of its intended effect.—New York Press.

A Widow Who Was Calm.

A lawyer was entertaining dinner guests recently with stories from his personal experiences.

"A woman came into my office one afternoon and said she wanted to see a lawyer on a rather important matter," he said. "She was very prim and self possessed."

"'What can I do for you?' I asked.

"'Well,' she said in an easy tone, 'my husband was hurt in the wreck the other day.'

"I noticed she was dressed in mourning, but from her indifferent tone I gathered that it had no connection with her husband's accident.

"'Was your husband badly injured?' I asked.

"'Yes,' she answered in the same quiet voice. 'He got his head cut off.'"—Kansas City Times.

The Old Romans.

Do you know that the Roman mortar was harder than the stones which it held together? It is a remarkable thing that we do not know how to make mortar like that now. And what an eye those old Romans had for position! It is a pity that some historical writer doesn't write a romance with Julius Caesar as the central figure. Shakespeare seems to be the only author who has done anything of that sort really well.—London Captain.

Opening of Deer Season.

Friday will mark the opening of the deer season and not in years has there been such apparent apathy or lack of interest among the hunters. Heretofore hunting clubs all over the county had arrangements all completed and were anxiously waiting the day before the season opened when they all migrated to the woods to be in readiness for the first day's hunting. The reason for the lack of interest this year is undoubedtly due to the stringency of the law passed by the last Legislature which makes it unlawful to shoot a doe. The deer must be a buck with horns before the hunter can take the risk of firing at it. And then he is privileged to shoot it only with a rifle, as shot guns are also barred. This places such an embargo on the hunter that it practically gives him no chance of bagging any game, and keep within the limits of the law.

As to the game itself, woodsmen say deer are plentiful, but while that may be so a party of hunters may tramp the woods for the full two weeks before they see a buck, while they might have had an opportunity to shoot several does. Just last Friday Harry Todd and Howard Holtzworth, of Philipsburg, were out hunting for birds in the neighborhood of the Black Moshannon and on their way home saw two fine does crossing the putlic road in the vicinity of McCord's dam. Of course the season had not yet opened, and also of course, if it had, it would have been unlawful to shoot them.

But notwithstanding the law and the difficulties hunters will be up against because of it a large number of them will go to the woods next week to try their luck. The Panther club, of this place, will go out as usual, only this year they will go into a territory where small game can be found with the possibility of running on to a deer or two at the same time. Their destination will be along the Beech Creek railroad some twelve or fifteen miles west of Mill Hall. The Roosevelt club, of Gatesburg, with John Lemon as captain, will go to their old camping ground on Six Mile run, this side of Philipsburg, while the Modocs, of Boalsburg, and parties from Centre Hall, State College Pine Grove Mills and other places in Pennsvalley will go in to the Seven mountains. And when the season is over and everybody has returned home there will probably be as much venison in the market as there has been most any other year; and that was never very much.

Monday was St. Martin's Day.

According to the old legend, if Monday—St. Martin's day—be cold and clear the winter will be severve and if the day be stormy it will be mild. As the day was clear and rather cold, those who pin their faith to legends, will have it that the winter will be a hard one.

St. Martin, the famous Bishop of Tours, was born in Sabaria, Hungary, in 316. In his youth he served as a soldier, but this profession was so distasteful to him that he resigned to lead the life of a hermit. It was while a soldier that he shared his cloak with a beggar who was pershing from the cold outside the gates of Amiens, France. This relic has been looked upon by many French kings as a good omen, and they would carry it with them to battle, believing by so doing they would be victorious.

St. Martin was elected Bishop of Tours in 374, and filled the office with great zeal and piety. He is called the Apostle of Gaul and the Soldier Saint. He died on November 11th, 397.

Barnum and Bailey no More.

Possibly the public may still like to be humbugged, but it is not to be any longer under the name of Barnum or Bailey, either. The Barnum & Bailey circus has been sold to the Ringlings, who for some years have been gaining in popularity and profits on the aggregation that had a name to conjure with.

The Orphan's Entertainment

The Orphan's from the Odd Fellows Orphan Home at Sunbury held their entertainment in the Garman Opera House Monday evening. The large play house was crowded by an enthusiastic audience. It was a rare treat to see some of the work these children do in this home of the friendless.

The programme followed out was as follows:

Song—"Little Boy Blue," Little girls.

IN THE MIDST OF LIFE WE ARE IN DEATH

How truly the scriptures have been full filled in the case we are about to mention. Four months ago on Saturday we made mention of a pretty little wedding that occurred at Pleasant Gap and four months from that time almost to the very hour the bride passed away to that home beyond.

On Saturday morning at 9 o'clock Edith Lutz Brooks died at her home in Altoona of typhoid fever and heart trouble. The body was brought to Bellefonte Saturday and taken to her parents home at Centre Hall. The subject of this sketch was known by almost every one throughout Penns Valley. She was a most earnest christian young woman and dearly loved by a large circle of friends. For over five years she was one of the efficient operators in the Commercial exchange at Centre Hall and through her kind, accommodating manner in dealing with the patrons of this company she won many warm friends.

Since her early girl hood days she has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of Centre Hall, she was always an earnest worker in the Master's Vineyard and was always active in helping some one on to a better and brighter life.

Before she was married and moved to Altoona she held many prominent positions in the Progress Grange at Centre Hall and was held in high esteem by every member of this organizatien. She was also a member of the Rebecca Lodge a department of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Mrs. Elwood Brooks was about 28 years of age. She leaves to mourn her death a loving husband, her parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lutz and one sister Mrs. Charles Bartholomew. She was buried this afternoon at one o'clock interment was made in the Union cemetery at Centre Hall. Rev. McIlnay her pastor officiated and was assisted in the services by Rev. Durkee of Pleasant Gap.

—Something special at the "Theatorium" tonight.

—The Hagerman property on Linn street was sold to Mrs. Gephart for $3250.

—If you want one of "Haines' 57" just place your order with "Papie" the handsome young clerk at Fauble's store.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. Murray Andrews have closed up their home on Allegheny street and will spend the winter abroad.

—Teddy Longwell is working again at Gettig's buther shop during the sickness of Irvin Gettig who was kicked by a stear a few days ago.

—Mr. D. A. Russell who has been the efficient chemist at the Bellefonte Furnace has resigned and accepted a similar position at Meadville.

—The stables at the Fair Grounds has been turned into sort of a gambling den. Every Sunday a gang of card players occupy these buildings—Look out for a fire at the Fair Grounds.

—The rumor in regards to the Bellefonte Furnace closing down is false, as the furnace is in good condition and sending out fine iron, and the market is always open to their product.

—The Pennsylvania R. R. Co. have established 60 incondescent electric lights throughout the Belletonte yards. The tower, station and baggage room are now lighted by electric light.

—The work at the tower has been devided into day and night turns and the positions are being filled temporarily by S. G. Tressler, who is on from 6 a. m. to 3 p. m. and O. W. Pierce from 3 p. m. to 12 m. The positions will be let for bids in a short time.

—On Tuesday that big bird the stork flew out to George Darr's near the Bellefonte Furnace and left a great big bouncing boy. George is tickled half to death and says he is just as nice as he can be. Mrs. Darr and the youngster are getting along splendidly.

—R. B. Taylor has received the contract to grade the new Athletic field at State College. The work will be started immediately and will be under the supervision of Philip F. Garbrick. The 10 ton steam roller and large shovels and wagons were shipped to the College Tuesday.

—William Walker is making quite a hit at the Autumn Fair in Lock Haven with his "Cracker Jack." The evening papers of that city say that Mr. Walker is doing a great business. Glad to hear it Bill, hope the coin will just roll into your pocket. The Lock Haven people don't need it any way.

—Fred Bueler, Superintendent of the Electric Light Works, was wearing a smile Wednesday that will never wear off and the reason of it all is a big boy arrived at their home this morning about four o'clock. Fred has already made arrangements to have him on Blair's staff in the Hospital corps. No doubt but what he will be an electrician.

—The many friends and relatives of Mrs. N. D. Orbison, quietly and informarlly congratulated her Saturday, upon her birthday, which occurred Sunday. Her daughter, Mrs. Beech, wife of the Rev. Sylvester W. Beech, of Princeton New Jersey, arrived Saturday noon, and Mrs. James L. Somerville, with her daughter Miss Bessie, from Winburne Penna.

—We notice Col. Chambers has offered his beautiful home on Lion street for sale. We hope the Colonel does not contemplate moving away from Bellefonte, as he has a great many friends in the old town who would feel sorry if he did so. His home on Linn street is one of the prettiest in Bellefonte and no doubt will bring a large sum of money.

—All passengers coming west over the Lewisburg will ask whether they want to meet trains east and west. This has been ordered so as to know whether the trains will have to be held at Bellefonte. The connection between the morning trains are very close and often the trains are held when passenare not going farther than Bellefonte.

—Frank Bauer one of the best Indians that ever came down the war-path has been engaged by Frank Saucerman to assist him in his tonsorial parlor on High street. Mr. Baurer has been pronounced, by some very good critics as one of the best barbers that has ever shaved a man's face. We congratulate Mr. Saucerman in being so successful in securing the services of so good an artist.

—One year ago tomorrow Josiah Dale was murdered somewhere on the Nittany mountain. Some people claim to know who the murderer is but don't have the nerve to tell. Some say they are positive it was not a man, others say it was a man and a woman. The question is, will the murderer or murderers ever be convicted and punished. It seems too bad that one whole year has passed around and hardly anything done to capture the persons who committed the crime. It is said by reliable parties that they have enough evidence against certain persons to warrant them in making arrests anytime. We hope to hear of something being done real soon in the matter.

AN ITALIAN BALL GAME.

A Statuesque Beauty in Pallone Seen In No Other Game.

Pallone is the king of ball games, requiring not merely great strength and alertness in the player, but offering also such a succession of noble plastic poses as may be seen in no other game. Goethe, who saw his first match with delight at Verona in September, 1786, wrote that such attitudes were "worthy of being put into marble." Our more enlightened archaeology would probably declare for the nobler bronze if the pundits could be persuaded to follow Goethe and occasionally exchange the library for the pallone court.

Be that as it may, the gist of the game is almost as readily grasped as its statuesque beauty. Pallone is merely the perfected and titanic form of the jeu de paume that is played from end to end of Europe. You see it in its incipiency when two urchins with tambourines beat a rubber ball to and fro in the open or against a side wall. In Spain the thing is done with a wicker racket in a court and is called pelota. But pallone, the ancient game, which is the parent of tennis, rackets and half a dozen other wall games, is as far superior to its rudimentary forms as baseball is to rounders.

One look at the big ball, the pallone itself, would convince you that here is a sport for men, if not for giants. The pallone looks like a huge baseball, but has twice the diameter and weighs two-thirds of a pound. I have seen its like in Columbia county, N. Y., where, years ago, the old Dutch game of wicket was played. Imagine a twelve pound shell or an enlarged croquet ball soaring from end to end of a 300 foot court or ricochetting treacherously off the side wall as the agile player gives this or that turn of the bristling wooden cestus. This bat is as noteworthy as the ball. A wooden cylinder, about eight inches long and six in diameter, with an outer array of inserted wooden spikes and an interior cross grip shaped to the player's hand—such is the arm piece, or pracciale. It is so heavy—weighing at least four pounds—that one may rather say it sways the bearer than he it. Once it swings at the hurtling ball, the whole body must follow the gesture; hence the remarkable plastic quality of all the attitudes of play. And the contestants are dressed in a fashion to give value to these momentary poses. A trim jacket, the right sleeve short, tight knickerbockers, stockings and canvas slippers, all spotless white, make up a costume that admits a touch of color only in the gold fringed sash—gift of an admirer, generally—which marks the player as belonging to the reds and blues. Returning to the pracciale, it is not a comfortable thing to wear. At every pause the players rap it sharply against the wall to drive the bandaged wrist home, and they often breathe on the hot and half exposed knuckles in a vain attempt to cool them.—Frank J. Mather in Century.

The Triumph of Titus.

The total number of those who perished in the siege and capture of Jerusalem is estimated by Josephus at 1,100,000 persons; 97,000 were taken captive by the Romans. Of these 700 of the finest and strongest were selected to grace the triumphal procession of Titus. The old and the weak, who could not be used, the Romans had butchered in cold blood. Those over seventeen years of age were part of them sent into the Egyptian mines, part of them forced to appear in battle with wild beasts and be torn to pieces by them or to fight as gladiators with one another to delight the eyes of the heathen populace. In Caesarea Philippi alone, at the celebration of the birthday of Domitian, more than 2,500 Jews shed their blood in the arena. The males under seventeen years of age and the women were sold directly into slavery. Titus, with all his prisoners and all his booty, marched to Rome, where he had a brilliant triumph in the year 71 A. D. The sacred vessels of the temple were carried before the "imperator," and Simon and John, for the first time shoulder to shoulder, were obliged to march before the chariot of the victor with the 700 chosen captives. Simon, being the real leader, was first scourged and then throttled at the stake, in accordance with Roman custom. John finished his career in prison.

A Magnolia Elysium.

When good Charlestonians die, their bodies, it is said, go to Magnolia cemetery and their souls to the Magnolia gardens. Indeed, it were quite excusable in a wandering spirit if, chancing on these gardens when the azaleas were in their radiant perfection, he should mistake the place for Elysium, especially if looking for such a gardenlike Elysium as Herrick's. Although widely known and visited yearly by hundreds, Magnolia is not a public garden, but a noble old estate on the Ashley river, belonging now, as it has belonged for 200 years, to the Drayton family of South Carolina. Very much as the folk of Tokyo go out to worship the beauty of the cherry blossoms, so in March and April Charleston people and any strangers fortunate enough to be within their gates make a pilgrimage to Magnolia. During the season the little steamer plies between Charleston and Magnolia, making the trip twice daily.—Francis Duncan in Century.

Horse Sense.

Mr. Jogtrot—I don't want this horse. He hasn't any sense at all. Every time he sees an automobile he wants to climb a tree. Dealer—Well, that's good horse sense, it seems to me.—Chicago News.

MEN AND THEIR CLOTHES.

Americans and Others as Seen by a London Sartorial Critic.

A man's dress invariably proclaims who and what he is. It is an index to his character, his tastes and his nationality, and without making a too abstruse study it is possible to indicate those features which proclaim the nationality of the wearer.

Of course there is an aristocracy of the nations who are difficult to distinguish except by some peculiarity of face or figure. Their clothing is refined and tasteful and leads one to believe that their garments are London made, as they are free from those glaring peculiarities which characterize the products of other countries.

The American's garments are generally quite two sizes too large for him, the collar of his coat is exceedingly narrow and the shoulders and back excessively wide. His jackets are often extremely long and his trousers pegtops finished with raised seams. His favorite garments are the lounge and Chesterfield, and these are often finished in some extraordinary way which he fancies to be original.

The Frenchman is dressy. His garments are close fitting and decidedly "waisty." He favors the frock and the morning coat, which he has finished with as much ornamentation as possible. Silk facings, braided edges and fantastic flaps are all characteristic of his dress, while he also pays a good deal of attention to his hat, tie and cuffs.

The German is in many instances a modified American. He likes plenty of room, especially about the chest, which part of his anatomy he delights to make much of. Consequently there is often a seam up the front of his coat from the waist. In cut his garments are angular, and in style he favors the morning coat and lounge. There is a lack of personality about his attire, and one can invariably detect the result of his military training in the uniformity of his garments.

The Spaniard is a modified form of the Frenchman. His garments are tasteful and neat. If the weather is suitable, he discards a vest, and his jackets are close fitting and finished with a low roll. Generally speaking, there is less peculiarity to note about the Spaniard's dress than with many others.

The Austrian and Hungarian participate in the characteristics of the German, but are more tasteful in the cut and finish, suggesting a skillful blending of French and German notions. On the other hand, the Italian type is a Germanized French style, so that you get more of the artistic finish of the French in their clothing than you find in the Austrian or Hungarian.

The Norwegian and Dane are seldom distinguishable from the Englishman as far as their clothes are concerned, except it be in a preciseness that is apt to suggest stiffness in place of that ease and grace which mark the English garments.

The colonial is invariably attired in utilitarian garb, a tweed lounge suit in a modified English style, cut for comfort and made up for strength. He has no desire for show and cares little for decorations, so that he is rarely seen in a frock or morning coat.—London Tailor and Cutter.

A Critique of a Prayer.

I heard Harry Gaze lecture recently, and he criticised the prayer we teach our infant children to make every night on retiring—"Now I lay me down to sleep," etc.

He said it was a terrible mistake to have placed before the mind of an infant child every day as a part of a prayer the thought of death, as in "if I should die before I wake."

Is it not a serious experiment, this constant placing the thought of death not only, but "sudden death," before the mind of a child every day and day after day of life, and might it not tend to result in early death?

The mind of a child is most impressionable. It should not be allowed to contemplate death and especially the fear of death habitually. Its teachings should be the joy of life, of health, of strength, of the infinite. The prayer should be uplifting, aspiring, joyous.

Character is thus formed.—Clark Bell in Medico-Legal Journal.

KISMET.

A GLANCE, a word—and joy or pain

How slight the links are in the chain
That binds us to our destiny.

Skate and Dance at the Rink.

On Saturday evening Manager Richard Taylor will hold a Dance and Skate at the Rink. Last season this proved a most successful venture and no doubt but what a large crowd will turn out at the week's end. The general admission will be 15 cents. Skates 15 cents to both ladies and gentlemen. Those wanting skates must see Mr. William Ryan, assistant manager of the Rink. Secure your skates early in the game.

A Quiet Wedding.

Mr. William Steele, Jr. of Bellefonte and Miss Dora Askey of Pine Glenn were united in marriage at the parsonage of the M. E. Church, by Rev. David Brouse on Oct. 17th. The happy event was very quietly celebrated. Mr. and Mrs. Steele returned to Bellefonte Monday evening and expect to remain here for some time. We wish them joy and happiness through life.

Friends Were Alarmed—Advised Change of Climate.

Miss Mildred Keller, 718 13th street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I can safely recommend Peruna for catarrh. I had it for years and it would respond to no kind of treatment, or if it did it was only temporary, and on the slightest provocation the trouble would come back.

"I was in such a state that my friends were alarmed about me, and I was advised to leave this climate. Then I tried Peruna, and to my great joy found it helped me from the first dose I took, and a few bottles cured me.

"It built up my constitution, I regained my appetite, and I feel that I am perfectly well and strong."—Mildred Keller.

We have on file many thousand testimonials like the above. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements Dr. Hartman is receiving.

The Butcheas Must be Careful.

Mr. Leonard Pearson, of Philadelphia, head of the state live stock sanitary board, lays down the law to the butchers of Pennsylvania after this fasion.

"Walls, partitions and posts in shops and slaughter houses are required to be smooth and without projections or crevices. Trays and other receptacles used for meat or edible parts, wagons used for hauling meats and all knives, cleavers meat grinders, sausage fillers and other tools and machinery must be cleaned after being used, so that particles of meat may not be retained in the crevices. The employment of persons affected with tuberculosis or other contagious or infectious diseases is prohibited in any establishments where meats or meat products are prepared for food. It is required that the clothing of employes that comes in contact with meat shall be of material that is readily cleansed and shall be kept clean. Employes who handle meats or other food products will be expected to keep their hands clean of any filthy or infectious matter. The use of a part of the slaughter house for a stable is prohibited. The accumulation of stable refuse or of bones or other waste parts of animals in or adjoining the slaughter house or ice box is also forbidden. The feeding of hogs or other animals on the premises with the slaughter house refuse is not premitted.

The storing of hides on the slaughter house floor is prohibited. The meat of any part of an animal intended for consumption much not be permitted to fall on the floor or come in contact with any disease producing material. When meat is carried along public highways in wagons it must be covered with clean canvas or other suitable material to protect it from street dust and insects. When a diseased animal has been killed and dressed it is required that the butcher shall, before dressing another animal, clean and disinfect his arms and hands tools, so that the succeeding carcess will not be contaminated with the diseased material. The floor on which a diseased animal has been killed and dressed must be cleaned and disinfected."

Cook—Mulhollem.

Mr. William Harris Cook, of Bellefonte, and Miss Edna Martha Mulhollem, of Altoona, were united in marriage at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening at the parsonage of the First Lutheran church, Twelfth avenue and Fourteenth street, by Rev. Dr. O. C. Roth. The beautiful ring ceremony was used and the attendants were Miss Anna Cook, a sister of the groom, and Mr. Frank Mulhollem, a brother of the bride. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride, being attended only by the immediate members of the families of the contracting couple. The bride is a most estimable young lady and the daughter of Mr. F. B. Mulhollem, of Lexington avenue. The groom is employed as an inspector by the Pennsylvania Railroad company and is located at Pittsburg, where the couple will take up their residence after a wedding trip to Philadelphia and other eastern cities.

THE EMANUEL RHONE FARM BRINGS $8,000

After a very careful consideration the Cambria Steel Works of Johnstown bought the Emanuel Rhone farm one mile north of Fillmore for $8000. The farm was bought by this company for its lime stone qualities. They have had mineing engineers and surveyers working all along this valley for months past and they come to the conclusion that the Rhone farm contained the best placed stone along the hills. That is, they can open a quarry with 91 foot face and take the stone out with out much expense as it stands upright and near the surface. The Cambria Company will open their quarries early in 1908. Mr. Rhone has been granted the privilege of farming the farm until the spring of 1909 as the work would not interfere with the quarrying of the rock.

The Keystone Guard.

On Tuesday evening November 19th the Supreme Secretary G. F. Stanton of Athens, Pa. and Mrs. C. F Height District Organizer of the Keystone Guards will be in Bellefonte and will hold a meeting in the Maccabee Lodge rooms in the McClain block.

Of late a great many false rumors have been circulated in regards to this order and it is the object of these officials to set matters right in the minds of the people.

The Keystone Guard is a Fraternal Benifical Society, incorporated under the Laws of Pennsylvania. It is said to be a very strong order that pays. Pays when you need it. Pays when you are sick. Pays when you are hurt. Pays when you are well. Pays if you live. Pays one-half death benefits for loss of limb or eye, and full death benefits for loss of any two of said members. These people will explain the many good things this organization offers to the members. Don't forget the date November 19th in the Maccabee Lodge Rooms. If you are in any way interested it would pay you to attend.

The Youths Companion Calender for 1908.

The publishers of the Youth's Companion will, as always at this season, present to every subscriber who subscription (1.75) is paid for 1908 a beautiful Calendar for the new year. Four paintings by artists of distinction are produced in the four panels of the Calendar by a process of color printing which has been recently brought to remarkable excellence. The first of the panels is an inspiring sea, scene, full of the beauty of the wide ocean and sky, and the joyous rush of the homeward-bound ship. The second is a fine cattle piece. The third pictures an old mill at Zaandam—typically Dutch in treatment. The fourth panel depicts a "Girl with Roses"—a charming face, exquisite in color and expression. All the pictures are worthy of preservation long after 1908 had passed into the good old times.

Hucksters' Creed is Curb Market Menace.

On the grounds that Williamsport's twice-a-week curbstone market has become a hucksters' market instead of a farmers market, and therefore governed by hucksters' trust prices rather than those fixed by the producers themselves, a movement has been launched in city councils, looking to the abolishment of curb market, which has been an institution since the days when the town was but a village, and which, under the name of the "Dutch Fair," is one of the city's unique attractions every Wednesday and Saturday morning.

Three Men and a Bear in a Thrilling Battle.

Three young operators on the Philadelphia & Erie railroad named John C. McCloskey, James O'Connell, Jr., and W. D. Gresh decided to spend Saturday hunting for small game in the vicinity of Glen Union, about 13 miles west of Lock Haven. Late in the afternoon while wending their way through the woods on the opposite side of the river from the station they noticed a disturbance in the bushes and decided to investigate. In doing so they suddenly came upon a large black bear feeding on the carcass of a small deer. Bruin became enraged at the intrusion and showed fight. The young hunters were not dismayed however, and completely surrounded their enemy and began pumping small bird and buck shot into the thick hide of the monster. This did not at all please the infuriated animal and the constant pelting of the small shot upon his thick hide blinded him to desperation. Rising to his feet he swung his paws around and unfortunately one of them came within range of McCloskey. His claws ripped open the flesh on his legs, arms and breast and sent him headlong into the bushes, the blood spurting from the wounds in great blotches. The animal in an instant was upon the body of the prostrate man and was about to continue the attack when Gresh found a shell loaded with a bullet in his ammunition belt. Hastily putting the shell into his gun he rushed upon the bear and placed the nozzle of the weapon in the ear of the beast and pulled the trigger. The ball crashed through the brain of the bear which fell over dead. It was a daring but fortunate act and undoubtedly saved his the life of young McCloskey as the bear would have torn him to pieces.

The grounds, where the encounter occurred, resembled a battlefield and covered with blood and hair and the bushes for rods about were trampled down and broken which goes to show it was one of the hardest fought fights that has occurred in this county in years.

The wounded hunter and bear were taken to Glen Union. It is though that McCloskey is not seriously hurt but his injuries are quite painful. The skin of the bear is to be sent to a taxidermist in Williamsport, where it will be prepared and mounted and afterwards forwarded to a high railroad official in Philadelphia as a gift. The bear weighed 200 pounds and was one of the largest killed in that county this year.

Miss Brisbin in Altoona.

Miss Grace Brisbin a neice of Col. and Mrs. J. L. Spangler passed through Bellefonte on Sunday evening on the train west. Miss Brisbin is leading lady in the Helen Grayce Metropolitan Theatrical Company and has won a grand reputation as an actress. She is dated for Altoona Thanksgiving week and the Tribune of that city speaks in glowing terms of the young actress. The following is clipped from the Tribune.

The Helen Grayce metropolitan stock engagement at the Misler theatre Thanksgiving week opens with a matinee presentation of "The Pride of Jennico," the bill is to be repeated at the night performance. "The Pride of Jennico" is a dramatization of the popular romatic novel by the same name, and has only recently been turned over for stock use after having enjoyed a Broadway engagement. It gives Miss Grayce just the kind of a role best calculated to show her at her best as both a comedienne and emotional actress, and to make her a favorite with local patrons of the house. On Tuesday Miss Grayce and her colleagues will present a pair of big royalty success in "The Little Minister" and "When We Were Twenty-one." The name of Maud Adams is inseperably linked with "The Little Minister," which is to be played in the afternoon, and "When We Were Twenty-one," announced for the night, immediately suggests Nat Goodwin and Maxine Elliott. Included in the repertoire for the remainder of the week are "The Pit," used by Wilton Lackaye in this city; "In the Palace of the King," one of Viola Allen's best vehicles; "The Holy City," and other equally high class plays.

Lots of Game Through Penns Valley.

On Saturday two bunches of hunters from Altoona passed through Bellefonte on their way home loaded down with rabbits One crowd had 28 and the other 21.

The gentlemen who had 21 were: W. W. Spinger, H. W. Spinger, and J. W. Burrs. The most of these rabbits were shot near Penns Cave.

The other crowd was composed of H. E. Rarick, G. F. Moody, Richard McMurray, George McMurray and Richard Hanly, the game they got was shot at Zerby.

Mr. Rarick was an old Centre County boy and knew pretty well where the wild game stayed. When he was a boy he went to school to our friend, Commissioner John Dunlap at Rock. Mr. Rarick said outside of a few hickory sticks that our efficient commissioner used, he was the best teacher he ever had, when he said that, we noticed John reaching him a quarter.

Born of a Dead Mother.

Webster, Mass. November 11.—An operation performed on Mrs. Adam Massik ten minutes after she was dead brought into exsistance a healthy baby boy, who, the physician, Dr. J. O. Demeroux, predicts, will live.

The child is in all respects normal. The fact that he is alive is regarded by the physician as remarkable. Mrs. Massik, who was 30 years of age, and whose husband is a mill employe, was ill three days with congestion of the lungs. She died at 9 o'clock. Dr. Demeroux said: "In the last twenty years I have seen three other cases like this. but the children, while alive at birth, never lived more than ten minutes afterwards. This child gives excellent promises of living.

Baby Boy—Oh Joy.

Howard Best manager of the John Lyons Automobile Establishment is wearing a smile that can't be obliterated and at the same time is using his loose change in purchasing 10 cent cigars for his friends. This joyfulness is due to the arrival of a bouncing baby boy which his wife presented to him on election day. The young heir will likely be named Howard Best Jr. and the happy father says it is the Best boy that was ever born. The mother and baby are doing nicely and the little youngster in 21 years hence will find that he arrived in time to cast his first vote.

A Change at the Theatorium.

Beginning on Monday November 11th the people of Bellefonte were given double their money's worth at the Theatorium. Heretofore about 1000 to 1500 feet of pictures and one illustrated song were given for 10 cents, hereafter 3000 feet of pictures and two illustrated songs will be given for the same price. The entertainments will begin at 7—8 and 9 o'clock. Remember you get two shows for one price and that certainly should attract large crowds. Each entertainment will last at least one hour.

BILL CARSON TO THE RESCUE OF MILK CONSUMERS.

During the past week the price of milk has gone up to EIGHT CENTS a QUART and from reports it will make another leap a little higher, that is if the people are easy enough to pay it. One or two farmers living not far from Bellefonte are going to put this stuff on the market at 6 cents and the people of Bellefonte should stand by them. William Carson who lives on the Curtin-Reynolds farm two miles east of Bellefonte has made arrangement if necessary to furnish all of Bellefonte with MILK for SIX CENTS a QUART. He has a fine lot of cows and can very easily do this. He will have his milk wagons ready for business this week Any one wishing to get milk at the old price can reach Mr. Carson's home with the Bell telephone. Now that he has come to the rescue of the MILK CONSUMERS by putting his milk on the market at this price the people should stick by him.

It would be a God send if some of the farmers would reduce the price of butter so that a poor man could use it, if they do not, two firms in Bellefonte have already made arrangements and will pay the necessary licence and sell OLEO MARGARINE, and then the butter makers will be only too glad to get 25 cents a pound for their product. Several stores over the mountain are selling Oleo and it is wonderful the amount that is being used.

Now that we have a man to furnish milk at the old price, perhaps the same man can start the butter price at a quarter. You had better place your order early with Mr. Carson, remember you can reach his home over the Bell phone. Thank your Mr. Farmer Carson our next Sheriff of Centre County for reducing the price of this much used stuff.

WHY HE DOES IT.

Druggist G. M. Parrish Gives Reasons for Selling at Half-Price.

"It isn't often that I have faith enough in the medicines put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure," said druggist G. M. Parrish to one of his many customers, "but I am glad to sell Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that plan.

"The Howard Co., in order to get a quick introductory sale authorized Bellefonte to sell the regular fifty cent bottle of their specific for half-price, 25 cents. and although I have sold a lot of it, and guaranteed every package, not one has been brought back unsatisfactory.

"One great advantage of this specific," he continued, "is its small dose and convenient form. There are sixty doses in a vial that can be carried in the vest pocket or purse, and every one has more medicinal power than a big pill or tablet or a tumbler of mineral water.

"I am still selling the specific at half-price, although I cannot tell how long I shall be able to do so. Any person who is subject to constipation' sick headache, dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion, or a general played out condition, ought to take advantage of this opportunity. If the specific does not cure them, they can come right back to my store and I will cheerfully refund their money.

Automobile Accident.

Friday afternoon, Mr. Wike, one of the managers of the paper mill at Tyrone, his wife and Mrs. James Gregg, formerly of Milesburg, started for Bellefonte where Mr. and Mrs. Wike were going to pay a short visit to their son, Victor Wike, who is a student of the Academy. They were running at a pretty rapid speed and when near Julian, something went wrong with the steering apparatus of the machine. The result was that Mr. Wike was unable to keep the automobile in the road and it went over a ten-foot embankment at the side of the thoroughfare. The three occupants were injured, but the most serious was that of Mrs. Gregg, she was carried into the Nason home when Dr. Wasson, of Tyrone, was telephoned to who came at once in his automobile. After treating the patient the ladies were taken to Tyrone by Dr. Wasson. The machine was a Buick which was badly wrecked.

A VERY MEAN THIEF

Stole Garfield Tile in Railroad Station.

MARKED HISTORIC SPOT

Placed in the Floor to Designate Where President Fell when Pierced by the Assassin's Bullet in 1881.

PENNSYLVANIA PAYS IN CASH

Washington, November 9.—The discovery has been made that some person, presumably a souvenir hunter, has stolen a red tile in the floor of the Pennsylvania Railroad station that marked the spot where President Garfield fell when pierced by the bullet of the assassin Guiteau. The spot was indicated for many years by a brass Star, but it attracted so much attention that persons congregating about it in the station blocked the passage to and from the train gates. The Pennsylvania officers finally replaced it by a red tile.

As the time drew near for vacating the old station for the new quarters in the Union Station there was much discussion among the railroad officers as to the disposition to be made of the red marker. The problem was finally solved by the souvenir hunter. The railroad officers declare that they will make every effort to recover it.

Altoona, November 9.—Friday the Pennsylvania Railroad company's paymasters commenced paying Altoona employes for work performed in October. The payroll will aggregate $1,000,000, which is about as large a sum as the company has ever distributed in the city and all will be paid in cash. The cash payment will materially allay the lack of confidence which has been manifest in this community during the past week.

Mysterious Aid for Criminal.

James Ryan who was found on a freight train in a stupid condition by Conductor Pierce on August 10 last, and who had in his possession the bottle of nitro-glycerine that exploded while being passed from Engineer Robinson to the conductor, causing the explosion that resulted in injuries of Pierce, Robinson, Krebs and March, is receiving aid in financial shape from some mysterious source. Ryan has retained Attorney F. H. Ely as his counsel to defend him in the case that is to be brought against him in Ridgway next week for the carrying of high explosives and having burglar's tools in his possession.

The supposition is that there is a regular organization of criminals of the class Ryan is supposed to be a member. These men have their regular officers and a sort of contingency fund is kept to aid these criminals in the event of their getting into trouble. Ryan had no money nor any thing of value excepting a still tongue—when captured

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Mistake.

It is generally supposed that instinct unerringly teaches birds and insects the best way in which to build their homes or nests and also to provide for their offspring. The following incident will show that instinct is not always infallible:

A naturalist placed three small empty vials in an open box on a shelf in an upright position in close contact, and they were uncorked. A short time afterward it was a matter of surprise to find that these had been appropriated by a female mud wasp. She had placed a goodly number of spiders in the center vial, doubtless intended to serve as food for her future brood, then proceeded to deposit her eggs in those on either side. She next closed tightly the mouths of all the receptacles with a hard lime cement. Having finished her work, she then doubtless went on her way, satisfied all had been done for her offspring that a thoughtful mother could do. But just think of the sensations of those little wasps when they come into existence, for, while starving in their sealed cages, they can plainly see through the impenetrable glass walls the bountiful supply of food which was provided for their use.

A Bark For Barker.

The editor sat in his easy chair. Editors always have easy chairs—in fiction. He thought he recognized the handwriting on one of the envelopes. He sighed.

"Another poem," said he, reaching for the waste paper basket. He opened the letter. He was agreeably disappointed. It was prose. It ran as follows:

"A man named Barker had a dog that barked, so he called it Barker because it barked and because his own name was Barker. So the man was Barker, and the dog that barked was Barker. The man didn't bark, although his name was Barker. Barker and Barker went for a walk, and Barker barked—that is, dog Barker, not man Barker. In fact, dog Barker barked so much that man Barker said: 'Barker, don't bark so often. You never hear me bark.' Just then man Barker barked his shin on the bark of a tree and barked like anything."

The editor paused. There was a note inclosed, which ran, "Please send check for inclosed to me at 1001 Barker avenue, city." Then did the deus ex machina write, with a smile, "I have received your joke and will send check —when my bark comes in."—Judge.

Legend of St. Winifred Well.

A romantic legend hangs around St. Winifred's well. Cradocus, a neighboring prince, smitten with the beauty of a Holywell damsel and roused to anger by her coyness, struck off her head as she fled from his unwelcome attentions. The head, rolling down the hill, rested near the church, and from the spot the present copious spring gushed forth as the earth opened to swallow up the assassin. St. Beuno, who was passing, picked up the head and, with a skill which is now lost to the medical profession, restored the maiden, with only a slender white line on her neck as evidence of the miracle. But not only did the well spring from the spot where the head rested, but the moss on its brink was supposed to be possessed of a particularly fragrant smell, while the blood marks on the stones assumed many beautiful tints on June 22, the anniversary of the event. Today the well is contained in a rectangular building, and the water flows into a large basin in the shape of an eight pointed star.—London Chronicle.

Handling Live Wires.

Never handle an electric wire (lest it be "alive") with the naked hand, but use a nonconducting substance as a protector. Any good nonconducting substance will supply protection.

Rubber—In form of gas stove tube or water hose, could be thrown over a wire to pull it from its connection with a live wire.

Porcelain—In form of a bit of common crockery or a floor tile, hand plate for door, a stone ink bottle.

Glass—A stout bottle, a glass rod or a pane of glass could be used to dislodge a wire from its connection with a trolley wire or other current feeder.

Wool—A woolen scarf, stocking, coat or wrap.

Cotton—Any piece of cotton garment or stout cotton twine.

Silk—Scarf or other garment.

Any of these materials in goodly thickness could be used to protect the hand in removing a live wire or even using an instrument to cut it through.

Spain's Canny Railroads.

In Spain the railroads do not lose a chance to make a little profit even in the case of the nontravelers. When you see somebody off in that country you must pay for the privilege. The railroads all sell billetes de anden, which are good for the platform only. These cost generally 5 centimos, equivalent to a cent in American money. Just why this is done it is hard to see, because persons entering a train cannot very well avoid the conductor, who is always making trips to inspect the carriages. If a person attempted to steal a ride in a carriage, he would have small chance of getting away with it. If caught, he would have to pay a penalty of just twice the fare between the point where he was discovered and the point where tickets last were inspected.—New York Sun.

He Had No Choice.

The wife of a dynamo tender went to a haberdasher's to buy a necktie for her husband. She selected a brilliant red one, ready made, whereupon the young and inexperienced salesman, with compassion for the future owner, was moved to remark:

"Excuse me, madam, is this tie for your husband?"

"It is," replied the woman.

"Don't you think he'd rather have some other color? I'm afraid he won't wear this red tie."

"Oh, yes, he will!" said the woman firmly. "He'll have to—he's dead."—London Answers.

The Irish Priest.

Stephen Gwynn has said somewhere excellently that the Irish priest possesses the secret of Irish life. He does, and so entirely is the key to it in his possession that I doubt if any genius, however great, could give an adequate rendering of Irish life without introducing the priest.—Katherine Tynan in Fortnightly Review.

Curious Westmorland Custom.

A strange custom is observed yearly in the small hamlet of Week, in Westmorland, in commemoration of an incident that happened in the year 1841. That year there was a plague of wasps and many persons throughout the country succumbed to the poisonous sting. The little hamlet holds the record for its number of victims, and in memory of the occurrence a memorial tablet was erected on the moor there. Now each year there is a procession. Most of the inhabitants turn out, carrying insect powder and other devices for killing wasps, and march to the memorial stone, where a short service is held by the minister of the parish. When the service is over a general crusade is made in search of wasps' nests, which are immediately destroyed. Some carry guns, some rags saturated in turpentine, while others carry paraffin, which is poured into the nest and a match applied. The anniversary is considered the most important event of the year.—English Country Gentleman.

Dr. Todd's Joke.

An amusing example of the Irishman's pronunciation occurs in a story told of the late Dr. Todd, the Irish archaeologist, who, although a great scholar, was not above perpetrating a practical joke. The London Spectator tells the story and says:

A very learned Englishman went to Dublin to examine some manuscripts in the library of Trinity college and was of course introduced to Dr. Todd, who one day in conversation told him that there was in Trinity college a curious instance of the survival of a habit dating from the time of the Danes; that at a certain hour of the afternoon—I think 6 o'clock—a porter went the round of the college ringing a bell and calling out in a loud voice, "The Dane's in the hall," when all the students rushed from their rooms to repel the invaders. So the learned but somewhat incredulous Englishman repaired to the college at 6 o'clock, and, sure enough, what Dr. Todd had told him came to pass, which he gravely related on his return to England. The summons of course referred to the dean.

The Three Fates.

The names of the three fates were Clotho, Lachesis and Atropos. To express the influence which they were believed to exercise on human life from birth to death they were represented as spinning a thread of gold, silver or wool, now tightening, now slackening and at last cutting it off Clotho, the youngest, put the wool around the spindle, Lachesis spun it and the aged Atropos cut it off when a man had to die.

England's One Protestant Cathedral.

Truro cathedral is the only Established Church cathedral of any importance which has been built since St. Paul's was completed by Sir Christopher Wren. All the great cathedrals and abbeys in England were erected by Catholics and were handed over by act of parliament in the reign of Henry VIII. to the Protestants when the Catholic church was established and the Protestant religion created by law. —Reynolds' Newspaper.

"Not regular grafters," answered Mr. Dustin Stax. "Those who get caught are only amateurs."—Washington Star.

BALANCE IN THE AIR.

The Necessity For Equilibrium In Bird Flight.

It is likely that the bird's superb ease and grace in the air are due to its ability to maintain absolute balance. If a gull makes the mistake of bending until the wind strikes its head and wings on the top it will tumble instantly. And the sailing birds, though they make no flapping motion of their wings, are constantly balancing themselves, like a man on a tight rope. Some scientists have maintained that the air sacs make it possible for the bird to manage minute changes that are very valuable in restoring equilibrium. It is known that the wing is joined to the body of the bird by what is called a universal joint, enabling the creature to make almost every possible motion. The body of a man is heavier than water, but if he gets into a position of perfect balance he will float. In some such way, it is claimed, the bird floats in the air. But as the bird would fall much more rapidly in the air than a man's body would sink in water the necessity for a far more subtle ability to keep the center of gravity on the part of the bird is apparent; hence, according to this theory, the bird is provided for this purpose with the most sensitive equipment, made up of nerves and mysterious air ducts, many of the wing feathers perhaps acting as sentinels, warning instantly of the slightest approach of shifting currents.—Everybody's Magazine.

ENTERTAINING THE DUKE.

Rudely Interrupted While He Was Chatting With Royalty.

The daily papers do their best, but not even their ubiquitous representatives garner all the store of good things which attend a royal visit to Ireland, says the London Sketch. No paper at the time printed the cream of the stories which grew out of a visit of the Duke of Connaught to the Emerald Isle. "Welcome to Ireland!" said a man as he saw the duke on the steps of a hotel in the little western town in which he was staying. "Welcome to Ireland, your royal highness. I hope I see your royal highness well." "Quite well, thank you," answered the duke. "And your noble mother, the queen. I hope her ould leddyship is enjoyin' the best of health?' "Yes, thank you. The queen is very well indeed," said the duke, vastly amused with the easy familiarity of the peasant. "It's glad I am to hear it. And tell me, your royal highness," the other went on, "how are all your noble brothers and sisters?" Before the duke could answer an aid-de-camp appeared, with, "Here, get along there." The peasant looked up with infinite scorn. "Arrah! What are yez interruptin' for?" he exclaimed. "Can't you see that me and his royal highness is houldin' a conversation?"

PANBESA'S LETTER.

An Account of an Egyptian City Thirty Centuries Ago.

Probably the oldest letter in the world is the letter of Panbesa, written fifteen centuries before Christ to his friend, Amenemapt, a scribe.

The manuscript is of perishable papyrus, and it is amazing that it should have survived for more than thirty centuries and still be legible.

It is preserved in the collection of the British museum. It has been several times translated. It presents an interesting picture of life in Egypt in the time of Rameses II. It is more in the nature of a literary production, a poem composed in celebration of the visit of Pharaoh to the city of Pa-Rameses, than an ordinary letter of today.

Panbesa "greets his lord, the scribe Amenemapt, to whom be life, health and strength," and then goes on to describe the verdant fields, the thrashing floors, the vineyards, the groves of olives, the orchards of figs, the great daily markets, with their fish and waterfowl and swarms of purchasers.

The citizens had their "sweet wine of Khemi, pomegranate wine and wine from the vineyards," and to these they added "beer of Kati."

There was music in plenty furnished by the singers of the school of Memphis.

On the whole, Pa-Rameses seems to have been a pleasant place to live in. "The lesser folk are there equal with the great folk," and Panbesa writes that its maidens were "in holiday attire every day," with locks "redolent of perfumed oil."

Pies and Pie Crust.

A good way to prevent the juice from running out of fruit pie is to insert a funnel shaped piece of paper in the top crust. This will allow the steam to escape while the pie is baking. Many people sprinkle the top of a juicy pie with flour before putting on the top crust. Another good suggestion is to use minute tapioca instead of flour for the purpose.

Lady Curzon's Discovery.

The late Lady Curzon is said to have told some American friends that very early in her married life she discovered that Lord Curzon liked to be "dressed for." So she resolved that he should never come to dinner without finding her in a garb a little different from what other people had seen her in. "It is not much trouble," she said, "and it pleases him."

Maximilian and "La Paloma."

Wherever that haunting air, "La Paloma," is played the memory of the Emperor Maxmilian, shot by the Mexicans on June 19, 1867, should be preserved. Maxmilian's final request was that "La Paloma" should be played while he stood up to meet his doom. He died with the tune in his ears, and his wife went mad with the shock of his execution.

THE GARTER.

Insignia of the Most Coveted of All English Orders.

Although the most coveted of English orders, the origin of the Garter is really a mystery.

Conflicting authorities assign the foundation of the order either to the 23d of April, St. George's day, 1344, or to the same festival five years later, while the popular anecdote associated with it is that at a court ceremony a lady—either the queen, the Countess of Salisbury or the Countess of Kent—happened to drop her garter, which was picked up by King Edward III., who, observing a disposition to laugh among the bystanders, exclaimed in his royal displeasure, "Honi soit qui mal y pense" (disgraced be he who thinks ill of it).

The reigning monarch is, of course, ex officio the sovereign of the Order of the Garter.

At first the garter was made of light blue silk, but that which is now given is made of dark blue velvet. It is worn on the left leg a little below the knee.

The Order of the Garter as an order of chivalry has a very deep religious significance. It is, or should be, attended by religious ceremonies of a very precise and ornate character, and it was reported in Victoria's reign that a certain nobleman hesitated as to accepting the honor on account of its having been conferred on an oriental potentate.—Philadelphia North American.

CAME TO STAY.

Return of the Prodigal With Money and a Large Check.

Old home week had come, and the returned sons and grandsons were gathered together. One after another they rose and told with pardonable pride their achievements in the great world, impressing their importance on the stay at homes. At length Mr. Jameson spoke:

"I went away from here twenty years ago a poor young man, with only one solitary dollar in my pocket. I walked the four miles from my father's farm to the station, and there I begged a ride to Boston on a freight car. Last night I drove into town behind a spirited pair of horses, and my purse—guess how much my purse holds in money today, besides a large check," and Mr. Jameson looked about him with a smile.

"Fifty dollars!"

"Seventy-five!"

"A hundred!" shouted the boys, filled with admiration.

"No," said Mr. Jameson, drawing a large, flat purse from his pocket when the clamor had subsided, "none of you has guessed right. When I had paid the 25 cents to Ozzy Boggs for my refreshing drive in the coach I had, besides my trunk check (which I retained for financial reasons), exactly 4 cents. I have come back, my friends, to stay. Any little jobs of sawing and splitting will be gratefully received."—Woman's Home Companion.

Our Names Lack "Color."

At an early period, and indeed well toward the beginning of modern history, proper names told something as to paternity, occupation and habitation. Today they are quite colorless. A new Ulysses would no longer be Laertides. No Peter indicates that he is the son of Paul. A Carpenter or a Weaver is likely to be a lily fingered stockbroker. Even the place names, complains the Nation, have pretty much disappeared, except in the case of nobility, and since the average gentle family has not for years lived on its titular estates or perhaps has had none at all our new Gastons de Foix give us a name as sapless as John Jones.—London Chronicle.

A Knockdown Argument.

A suburban school just opening for the season was composed of both city and country children. The teacher selected eight boys to debate the subject "Which Is Preferable, Country or City Life?"

After they had read many arguments with much enthusiasm Country Hugh laid down his paper and said: "Mr. President, they don't know what they're talkin' about. The city boy knows nothin' about 'going to town,' and that beats anything I know."—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Only Piece He Cared About.

"There was a French count," said a lecturer in the midst of a little sermon on selfishness, "who was traveling from Paris to Monte Carlo. On his journey he stopped at Mentone, where he sent for his valet, who had preceded him and was to have met him at that point. 'Alas, monsieur,' exclaimed the count's courier, 'poor Francois! I have just looked my last upon him. He was killed in a railway accident. His corpse lies on the outskirts of Mentone, cut in a hundred pieces!' 'Ah!' murmured the count, regretfully. 'Then just go back and fetch me the piece that contains my trunk keys.'"

The Old Way and the New.

The young lady from Boston was explaining. "Take an egg," she said, "and make a perforation in the base and a corresponding one in the apex. Then you apply the lips to the aperture and by forcibly inhaling the breath the shell is entirely discharged of its contents."

An old lady who was listening exclaimed:

"It beats all how folks do things nowadays. When I was a gal they made a hole in each end and sucked."—Judge's Library.

What the Poet Says.

After their honeymoon to Niagara falls they came back and settled on the old farm.

"Gracious, Silo!" said Cynthia. "Why are you in such a bad humor?"

"Making butter is blamed hard work," grumbled Silas, removing the beads from his brow.

"Oh, cheer up, Silo! Don't the poet say that it is 'love that makes the world go round?'"

"Yes; but, by gosh, it don't make the churn go round."—Chicago News.

The Black Sea.

The Black sea differs in a most remarkable manner from other lakes and seas. A surface current flows continually from it into the Mediterranean and an undercurrent from the Mediterranean into the Black sea. The latter current is salt and, being heavier than the fresh water above it, becomes stagnant at the bottom. Being saturated with sulphureted hydrogen, this water will not maintain life, and so the Black sea contains no living thing below the depth of about a hundred fathoms. Its area is 168,500 square miles, it is 740 miles long, and its greatest width is 390 miles.

They Both Pitch.

Desiring and Attaining.

Between desire and attaining, all human life flows on throughout. The wish is, in its nature, pain; the attainment soon begets satiety, the end was only apparent; possession takes away the charm, the wish, the need, presents itself under a new form when it does not; then follow desolateness, emptiness, ennui—against which the conflict is just as painful as against want. That wish and satisfaction should follow each other neither too quickly nor too slowly, reduces to the smallest amount the suffering which both occasion, and constitutes the happiest life.—Arthur Schopenhauer.

Whose Say-so Is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone and exclusively as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives.

Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to the above rule. Their claim to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their owners' and makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle-wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

In favor of Dr. Pierce's medicines is the frank, confiding, open, honest statement of their full composition, giving every ingredient in plain English, without fear of successful criticism and with confidence that the good sense of the afflicted will lead them to appreciate this honorable manner of confiding to them what they are taking into their stomachs when making use of these medicines.

WHAT THEY CURE. People often ask "What do Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines—'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' cure?"

Briefly, the answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative, or blood-purifier, and tonic, or invigorator, and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder curing a large percentage of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is generally successful in affecting cures. In fact the "Golden Medical Discovery" is without doubt, the most successful constitutional remedy for all forms of catarrhal diseases known to modern medical science. In Chronic Nasal Catarrh Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid should be used for washing and cleansing out the nasal passages while taking the "Discovery" for its blood cleansing and specific, healing effects upon the mucous lining membranes. This combined local and general treatment will cure a very large percentage of the worst cases of chronic nasal catarrh, no matter of how many years' standing they may be.

As to the "Favorite Prescription," it is advised for the cure of one class of diseases only—those weaknesses, derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. It is a powerful, yet gently acting, invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak, worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, strong, vigorous condition of the whole system.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most of our obstinate and most fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of this firm conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weakness and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of leucorrhea, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines had failed.

Both these world-famed medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots, found in our American forests. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. What is said of their power to cure the several diseases for which they are advised may be easily learned by sending your name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little booklet which he has compiled, containing copious extracts from numerous standard medical books, which are consulted as authorities by physicians of the several schools of practice for their guidance in prescribing. It is FREE TO ALL. A postal card request will bring it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce, over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

THE RATTLER.

It Rarely Sounds Its Note of Warning Until Attacked.

Contrary to the general belief, the rattler rarely gives its characteristic note of warning until actually attacked. In fact, the sharp, vibrant ring of its terminal appendage is probably designed more to assist this very sluggish serpent to obtain its food than to sound defiance or warning. In the first place, serpents possess but the most rudimentary traces of auditory apparatus and are practically deaf, the deficiency in the sense of hearing being compensated for by an extreme sensitiveness of feeling which makes them aware of the approach of moving objects by the vibration of the ground.

Hunters, treading cautiously upon a soft carpet of moss or leaves to avoid alarming game, will often step close to or over a rattler without disturbing it or receiving warning, and while many snakes are seen and killed by them it is probable that a far greater number are passed by unnoticed. All snakes are timid and would rather run than fight, and the rattler is not inviting certain destruction by advertising its whereabouts in the brush.—Francis Metcalfe in Outing Magazine.

CAUGHT THE THIEF.

An Incident Which Illustrates Japanese Detective Methods.

Recently in the village of Taharamura, Japan, all the male inhabitants above the age of fifteen years were assembled in front of the local Shinto shrine at the call of the village chief. A thief had been making depredations in the local tobacco plantations, and the chief sought to discover him. Outlines of the feet of all the villagers were taken on sheets of paper, and then these were compared with the tracks left by the thief in the tobacco fields. Nothing resulted from this experiment. The next day the inhabitants were called together again. A great hole was dug in the ground, and a raging charcoal fire was built in it. All persons present were ordered to walk through the fire barefooted, it being declared that no person would be burned except the guilty one. All advanced to undergo the ordeal except one, Shukichi Shibata, a man of evil reputation. He declined to trust his feet to the redhot coals. Accordingly he was arrested and soon confessed his guilt.

FICTION AND FACT.

The Message In the Story Book and In Real Life.

In a magazine:

"I don't like you any more."

Harold Hoplite looked up at the quaint figure—a boy of six, with a mouth smeared with huckleberry pie.

Harold was glum.

"I don't like you any more."

"Why?"

"'Cause you made sister cry."

"Ethel cry! I didn't—I couldn't—make her cry."

"Well, she's crying now when you said nothing when you walked away. Why didn't you say by-by and kiss her when you're going away? I always do."

"I will! Right now!"

And Harold hastened back to make up the lovers' quarrel.

In real life:

"Say, sister gave me a piece of pie to come down and see if you'd gone and if you hadn't to try to get you back past where she was sitting on the porch getting ready to be crying."

"Oh!"—New York American.

The Spleen as Food.

In France and Italy many persons eat the spleen, what we call in French "ratte." I have eaten it myself. Generally from a pig it weighs about eight ounces, and it is situated on the right side of the pig, touching the liver. A spleen from a cow or bull weighs about two pounds, but is a little more spongy than the pig's spleen, which is the best. If some one should start the fashion we would after awhile pay 75 cents a portion in first class restaurants, especially if some person of mark should start the habit.—Chef Valere Braguehais in Letter to New York Tribune.

Moritz Rosenthal, attorney for the Standard Oil company in the fight it will make against payment of the fine recently imposed by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, has distinguished himself in the courts of several states. In the contest in which he is now prominent his work will be chiefly confined to the courts of Indiana, since it was the Indiana subsidiary of the national oil monopoly which was fined by Judge Landis. Attorney Rosenthal is a comparatively young man still, though he has reached a leading place in his profession. He was born in Dixon, Ill., in 1866 and twenty-two years later graduated from the University of Michigan. He was married in 1897 at Chicago to Miss Virginia Moses. He has been a member of the Chicago bar since 1890 and has served as assistant state attorney of Cook county, Ill., and as assistant United States attorney of the northern district of Illinois. He is a Democrat and a member of the famous Iroquois club of the city of Chicago.

ONLY ONE.

The Record in Bellefonte is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Bellefonté citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs. Emma J. Davis of E. Logan St. Bellefonte, Pa. says; I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Whenever I feel any symptom of my old trouble I send to F. Potts Green's drug store for a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and it never requires more than a few doses to get me right."

Stimulation Without Irritation.

That is the Watchword That is what Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does. Cleanses and stimulates the bowels without irritation in any form.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"! Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—Miss Ione Donachy is quite ill with an attack of quinsy.

—The milk trust has been busted. Now to knock on the butter dealers.

—Mrs. F. E. Naginey entertained a number of friends at cards on election night.

—Mr. Otto gave a delightful dance on Saturday evening in the Logan ball room Christy Smith's Orchestra furnished the music.

—B. F. Winters one of Lock Haven's most prominent citizens died at that place on Wednesday. The funeral occurred Friday afternoon.

—Anna Hull won another of the "Polly Evans" prizes given away by the North American. This time she received a magnificent box of chocolates.

—Our good friend John Bathgate of Lemont fell from an apple tree last week and since then has been quite ill. We sincerely hope he will speedily recover.

—Mrs. Louis Hill who has been quite ill in the hospital the past month, was discharged during the past week. She is almost well and will soon be as strong as ever.

—Irvin Gettig the butcher was kicked on the knee last week by a stear and it is feared the injury will result in a serious manner with the young butcher, we sincerely hope he will come aronnd O. K.

—Three new members were taken into the Bellefonte Tent Knights of the Maccabees on Wednesday evening and in two weeks from now there is a list of about one dozen candidates to be initiated.

—A farmer came into the Daily News office on Thursday and asked if we had any barrels for sale, we directed him to go up town to a certain law office where they handled so much booze on election day, thinking perhaps they might have an extra keg empty.

—Miss Anna Shaughnessy celebrated her 10th birthday on Saturday and she invited in a number of her little friends to help pass away the afternoon and evening. We extend our congratulations to the little miss and wish her many happy returns of the day.

—The City Band and the Hope Hose Fire Co., of Lock Haven are having an Autumn Fair. It promises to be one of the gayest functions of the season as every business man in the town is taking an active interest in the affair, —On Tuesday evening the stork called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Lucas on East Logan street and left to them a bright little baby girl. Both Mrs. Lucas and the baby are getting along fine, while Rube goes around with a smile on his face that won't wear off.

—The crowd that witnessed the "Passion Play" in the Theatorium on Saturday night was very large. No doubt but much good has been accomplished by having this high class entertainment in Bellefonte. Miss Twitmyer's and Miss Shaeffer's singing pleased every one present.

—Edward Thomas of Snow Shoe was taken to the Bellefonte hospital Monday morning. You can get about as much satisfaction talking to the hospital as you can talking to Bill Dork. It seems as though everything was kept a secret there and that they are afraid to give anything out for publication.

—Ten days or two weeks ago Peter F. Keichline installed an acetylene plant in the back room of his green grocery store so as to furnish his own light. He used it one or two nights and one morning when he went to light it he got no gas and an examination showed that the machine was frozen up. This kind of scared Peter and he at once had the plant removed and electric light again installed.

—On Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 the Chemical Lime Company started their kilns by having Robert Walker and Harris Olewine light the fires. Inside of a week the entire plant will be in full operation. Nearly one hundred men are employed now at these works and before long many more men will be employed. We hope the company will have unbounded success with their product and that it will always be in demand on the market.

—The side walks are in fairly good condition on High street but a great many bricks are loose and during a rainy season such as we experienced last week, a good bit of water gathers under them and if you make a misstep you are sure to be sprinkled with dirty water. A great many of the walks down on Thomas street are in fearful condition and should be looked after. Some one will break a leg and the borough will have to stand for it.

—Mrs. Margaret Wilson is having her ome on High street repainted,

—Mrs. Richard Lutz is confined to her home on Howard street with sickness.

—John Dubbs the Agricultural implement dealer is erecting a large ware house across the race at the rear of Keichline's green grocery.

—Cards announcing the marriage of Edward Lucas, formerly of Bellefonte, and Miss Mollie Harris of Philadelphia, were received by some of the young man's friends in Bellefonte this morning. The wedding occurred on the 7th. Mr. Lucas's home is at Farmers Mills, and when in Bellefonte was employed in the clothing store of the late Samuel Lewin.

—The crowd at the skating rink on Saturday evening was wonderful. Roller skating is continuing to be the season's favorite craze, and roller racing such as was witnessed at the rink Saturday night is proving equally as interesting as any amusement before the Bellefonte people this fall. The crowds become very enthusiastic and everyone has a royal good time. If you don't skate go down and see the others and hear the good music.

—We are a little late—but better late than never, so we extend our heartiest congratulations to Mr. Claude Jones editor and proprietor of the Tyrone Herald who was elected on Tuesday. Register and Recorder of Blair county by a handsome majority of 2675 over his democratic opponent Mr. Reighard. The great fight in Blair county is not in the election but in getting the nomination. But Mr. Jones' majority speaks well of his popularity in his home county.

—On Thursday evening little Budd Parks was caught stealing a box of cigars at Greens Drug store. This is the third time this youngster has been caught stealing from this store and the next time the proprietor will have him arrested and sent to a reformatory. The little fellow cannot be more than eight years old and from what we can understand has been caught doing acts of this kind at different places over the town. What a sin and a shame to bring a boy up in this manner.

—The Tyrone Council has passed an anti-spitting ordinance. It provides a penalty of from $1 to $5 for spitting on any side walk, street car, theatre or any public place within the limits of the Tyrone borough. Just such an ordinance should be passed in Bellefonte, and carried out to its fullest extent. In front of some of our stores the pavements are in fearful condition, and ladies passing by have to lift their dresses to their shoe tops so as not to be smeared with this dirty stuff. We would suggest that council take some action on this subject at their next meeting.

—J. Harris Hoy has decided to quit farming and to this end will dispose of all his personal property, in the shape of stock and farming implements at private sale. He will sell anything in that line he has at once, hence if you want either stock or machinery call upon him. In two weeks from now he expects to publish a list of all the stuff he has left for sale and then you can see just what he has. Harris has not yet decided what he will do after getting rid of the farms further than that he and his sisters expect to move to Bellefonte in the spring to make their future home.

—The McCoy & Linn Iron company on Monday bought the Gatesburg ore mines from the Nittany Iron company and now have a force of men at work getting the same in shape for immediate operation. The Nittany valley ore has a reputation of its own for making the best pig metal on the market, even when run through a coke furnace but when the metal made from the Nittany ore is a product of a charcoal furnace its superiority can readily be told. The resumption of the Gatesburg bank will mean employment for the usual quota of men there, a fact the old employees will be glad to learn.

—Dr. Thos. C. VanTries, of Bellefonte, Pa., a retired practitioner, who is in town for a short time, will give a recital of "Anecdotes and reminiscences of eminent men and women whom he has seen and heard," in D. N. I. chapel, probably on Friday evening, November 1. The Doctor has seen and heard many noted orators, and remembers many anecdotes and reminiscences of them, which he will tell his audience. No admission fee will be charged. Dr. Van Tries only hopes to entertain and uplift his hearers. He is an elder in one of the Presbyterian churches of Bellefonte, and carries a highly commendatory letter from his pastor.—Dayton, Pa. News.

—The Larimer building opposite the court house is fast being put in shape for the occupancy of the Bellefonte lodge of Elks and it will only be a matter of a week or so until it will be finished, furnished and occupied. The main lodge room will be on the third floor and while it will not be furnished elaborately everything will be neat and modern. A card room in front and another small room in the rear—where the goat will be kept—will complete the makeup of the third floor. On the second floor will be two large lounging and reading rooms connected with folding doors; a small ante room, the buffet and a kitchen. The rooms are being appropriately papered and painted and when finished will present a very cheerful and homelike appearance.

—If the Gypey wagon on Thomas street could talk it would certainly tell some funny things that has occurred inside its walls.

—Miss Jennie Lose entertained a number of young friends at her home on So. Allegheny St. It was the celebration of her 20 birthday on Monday evening.

—By orders of County Commissioners we announce that the winter primaries to be held in January will be under the Old System of nominating Borough and Township officers.

—Business in Bellefonte Saturday was better than it has been for years. It was an off day and none of the factories paid, but the weather was grand and the farmers were here with the dough.

—C. N. Meserve. Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association will lead the Young Peoples Meeting at the United Brethren church Sunday evening at 6:30 You are cordially invited.

—The Bellefonte Academy received its worst defeat in Lock Haven Saturday afternoon, when Central State Normal defeated them, 32 to 0. The visitors did not have a look in at any stage of the contest.

—There will be no morning services in St. John's Reformed church next Sunday. In the evening at 7.30 a special service will be held in the new chapel commemorating the sixth anniversary of the present pastorate.

—Miss Betty Heinle will give a Recital and Dance in the old Masonic Auditorium in the Reynolds block on Thanksgiving eve. November 27th 1907. It will be a society affair and one of the best entertainments of the season.

—The coming wedding of Miss Lula Pacinni and Mr. William Cunningham was announced at the Catholic church on Sunday morning by Rev. Father McArdle. The happy event will occur on Thanksgiving Day at Beaver Falls.

—We return our sincere thanks to the Trustees, Faculty and Students of Pennsylvania State for the invitation they extended to attend the Dedication of the Agricultural Building and Pennsylvania Day exercises on November 22nd 1907.

—The Blanchard home on West Linn street is being remodeled. A large porch is being built at the rear of the house which has been raised several feet, and the home is being repainted on the interior and exterior. When finished it will be one of the most attractive residences in the town.

—A young fellow by the name of Snodgrass was found along the roadside near Filmore last week by mail carrier Rearick. The young fellow had been in a runaway and his leg was fractured near the knee. He was taken to a home near by where his injuries were properly attended to.

—Joseph Hazel the bright little son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hazel was riding to school Tuesday morning on his Shetland pony when Hoy's milk wagon came along and knocked the little fellow from the animals back and injured him pretty badly. He was carried home and his cuts and bruises properly attended to.

—Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt left for Hanover, Pa., Tuesday afternoon to attend the funeral of an aged aunt. It will be necessary for him to cancel his lecture announced for Thursday evening at Zion. Services will be held in the Reformed church at Zion, Friday evening at 7.00 and Communion services Sunday morning at 10.30

—This being the international Y. M. C. A. week of prayer in the behalf of young men, the local Association would request praying men and women to remember in prayer the young men of the world. Local young men whose lives do not conform to the teaching of Jesus Christ should have a prominent place in our petitions, being mentioned by name. A prayer circle of men will meet at the Association rooms each evening at seven o'clock for fifteen minutes only. This group is open to any christian.

—The young Men's Christian Association has booked the following entertainments for the benefits of its piano fund. December 3rd. The Otterbein Male Quartett with H. U. Eagle Impersonator. December 17th. "At The Ferry." A home talent entertainment under the direction of the Central Lyceum Bureau. January 27th The Rhony Boys Concert Company. Friends of the Association are requested to give their patronage to the above entertainment and make it possible for the young men to meet the final payments on this beautiful musical instrument.

—The Royal Gypsy Concert Company will be at the Petrikin Hall on Thursday evening November 21, 1907 in speaking of this exceptionally fine musical organization. Charles H. Wevel, General Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of New York city has this to say: The two concerts given by the Royal Gypsy Concert Company in the Association Course this season were greatly enjoyed by large audiences. The voices were all exceptionally good, and the ensemble of the double quartete, of a high order. The action of the Company in the humorous numbers reached the plane of the professional, but was scrupulously free from anything that could offend good taste.
